THE CONDITIONS OF PEACE

Reading of the Terms in the French Assembly—Additional Particulars of the Conditions—Rothschild Promises to Pay the Indemnity in a Year—Frederick Charles Governor of Champagne.

BORDEAUX, Feb. 26.—President THIERS read to the Assembly today the conditions of peace.

France cedes one-fifth of Lorraine, including Metz and Thionville, and all of Alsace, except Belfort, and pays an indemnity of five milliards of francs, one milliard this year, and the balance in three years. The German troops will gradually withdraw from French territory as the payments are made.

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—The evening edition of the Times contains a special dispatch from Versailles, today, which gives the following additional particulars of the treaty of peace signed on Sunday:

The fortified cities of Lessville, Nancy and Belfort are lost to France.

Lorwy, Thionville, Metz, Saarlouis and the lost districts village to Germany.

The Times special also says:

M. ROTHSCHILD promises to pay the entire indemnity to Germany within a year, by which the German army of occupation will be got rid of at the end of that time.

Prince FREDERICK CHARLES is to be Governor of Champagne, with head-quarters at Rheims.

Speculation Regarding the Withdrawal of the Germans—How the Departments are to be Evacuated.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—It is stated that the occupation of the Departments south of the Seine ceases after the ratification of the treaty, and that of the other Departments after the payment of five hundred millions of the indemnity. The fortresses are to be occupied until the entire indemnity is paid.

PARIS

The Entry of the Victors to be Made Today—Appeals of the Press to the Citizens to Maintain Order—The Houses and Theatres to be Closed.

VERSAILLES, Feb. 22.—Everything has been prepared for the entry of the Germans into Paris. The issue of the final orders has, however, been reserved until to-morrow.

The agitation in Paris continued throughout yesterday, but there was no disorder.

A manifesto signed by the editors of forty-three newspapers exhorts the people to calmness and dignity under their approaching trial.

The Bourse and theatres will be closed during the occupation of the city.

The German troops will be strictly confined to their quarters while in Paris.

The powder magazine at Vilette has been pillaged by soldiers.

The German Price for Entering the City—Barricades Around the Portion Occupied by Their Parliament—Resolutions Against Abandonment by the City on Monday—The German Emperor Merely to Pass Through Paris.

PARIS, Feb. 27, VIA LONDON, Feb. 28.—Contributions and requisitions are to cease.

The entrance of the Germans into Paris was the price paid to save Belfort.

The Germans will enter Paris on Wednesday, and will evacuate the city immediately upon the ratification of peace.

The Prussian Army will occupy the left bank of the Seine. No Frenchmen in uniform are to be allowed to enter the German portion of the city, which will be surrounded by barricades.

There was much patriotic agitation on Sunday night in consequence of a report of the immediate entry of the Germans, and the Guard erected ramparts in the Champs Elysées to repel the enemy. There was, however, no disturbance.

At midnight of Sunday quiet was restored. But on Monday morning the city was again agitated. Crowds surrounded a notice signed by M. PICARD, and which had been placarded in various parts of the city, appealing for the preservation of order and dignity. A crowd also invaded the prison of Saint Pelagie, and freed two commandants of the guard who had been placed under arrest.

All the papers, even the ultra radical, recommend non-resistance to the entry of the Germans.

All the papers will abstain from publication during the occupation.

It is believed there will be no conflict.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—The Paris says the question of the entry of the German Army into Paris occupied the negotiators ten times longer than those of territorial cession and indemnity. Many of the citizens have purchased a week's provisions to avoid appearing in the streets during the German occupation.

The policeman who was drowned in the Seine by an enraged crowd, on Sunday, proved to have been an employe under the Napoleonic Perfect PIETRI, and to have been murdered in consequence of his acts in that capacity.

The Parisians believe that the Germans enter the city with the intention to provoke a conflict, which will give color to more exactions.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The Emperor WILLIAM will merely pass through Paris and his new possessions on route to Berlin.

CELEBRATING VICTORY.

Triumphal Entry of the Germans into Berlin—All the German Armies to be Represented.

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—The Prussian Cross Gazette states that orders have been given the municipal authorities of Berlin to prepare quarters for the Saxon, Baden, Bavarian and Wurtemberg troops, who will pass through Berlin with the other returning troops. The orders say that it is the wish of the Emperor that all parts of Germany should be represented on the occasion of his entry into the capital.

MISCELLANEOUS WAR NEWS.

The Prolongation of the Armistice—A German Attack on Mayre Before the News Was Known.

BORDEAUX, Feb. 23.—The armistice is prolonged to the 12th of March.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Advices from Havre says the Germans, unaware of the prolongation of the armistice, attacked that city, today. Their operations were checked by the appearance of a flag of truce from the city with the news, and hostilities at once ceased.

It is said that Gen. AURELLES DE PALLIERES has been named commander of the National Guard of the Seine.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

Agrarian Murders in Ireland—The Spanish Difficulty with Egypt.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Dispatches from various parts of Ireland, received today, report that several acts of agrarianism have occurred, in which a few persons were killed.

Mediation has been offered and accepted in the Spanish-Egyptian difficulty, and a pacificable solution is anticipated.

Proceedings in the British Parliament—Marriage With a Deceased Wife's Sister—Taxation and Capital.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The House of Lords today voted an address to the Queen, praying Her Majesty to vote the bill passed by an Australian Parliament, legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister.

In the House of Commons Mr. LOPES introduced a bill to remove gross irregularities in taxation, and prevent local capital from being driven abroad for investment.

Barometer corrected for temperature and elevation.

Synopsis of Weather Reports for the Past Twenty-Four Hours.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The storm for the past few days has entirely left the East Atlantic Coast. The barometric depression reported last night in the northwest has moved with great rapidity eastward and southward, and is now over Upper Canada. It has produced a heavy fall in the barometer, and high winds on the lakes and in the Mississippi Valley.

The pressure is now recovering in the West and South-west. Clear weather and fresh winds have prevailed on the Gulf and Atlantic coast.

PROBABILITIES.

Fair weather and fresh winds are probable for Wednesday, on the Gulf and South Atlantic. Brisk winds will probably pass over the Lakes and Middle Atlantic with fair weather on the upper Lakes.

Observations on Mount Washington.

SUMMIT OF MOUNT WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Observations taken at 7 P. M.: Barometer, 32.82, being a change of plus .53; thermometer, 9°, being a change of minus 7°; relative humidity, .41; wind, north-west; velocity of wind, 25 miles per hour. The velocity of the wind reached the rate of ninety-four miles per hour at 11 o'clock last night, and abated toward the morning. Never before have the frost features been so beautiful as those formed during last night. The clouds passed off the mountain at 10 A. M., and it has been clear since. The wind was blowing fiercely all day.

Furious Rain-Storm in the West—The Mississippi Rising.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 28.—A very strong south-west wind prevails here to-night, and a furious rain-storm is raging in Minnesota. All communication north of Lacrosse is stopped for the night. The Mississippi River is reported to be rising fast.

METHODIST BOOK CONCERN.

The Methodist Book Concern Investigating Committee has adjourned until March 20, without having done anything. They have been six days in session. The first morning on which they assembled they have been examining recommendations of the eight applicants for the place of experts in the hope of selecting one, two or three to whom they could unanimously intrust the examination of the affairs of the concern for the last twelve years. But in vain were all these siftings and debatings; nothing could be done unanimously. The process required for the appointment of experts was first his nomination by the Committee without one dissenting vote, then his approval by Judges FANCHER and REYNOLDS. Of the eight applicants only one man was so fortunate as to receive this nomination on the fourth day of the session. Then he was rejected by the Judges, and this week the members commenced their work without the slightest prospect of a solution of the problem before them. Monday was spent in useless debate, and on Tuesday, at noon, the Committee was compelled to adjourn without having accomplished anything. The reasons for this strange termination to their labors are that much of the members have duties to attend to in their own Conferences just now, and other calls from home, which are imperative. The failure of their failing to appoint experts may be easily plainly stated in a few words—individual preferences. The former might have been overcome, as was done in the case of the solitary nominee who was confirmed by the Judges; but the latter could not. Hence there was a person whom power to intercede the trust Straightforward men of the Committee, by discussing the various qualifications of the candidates at issue with some of the members, his friends, was great indeed. But it was in vain. Not a person could be found who would take office, in which he took every trouble to avoid, if he thought he or any of these members called upon him.

GENERAL TELEGRAMS.

CUBA.

The Tobacco Monopoly—Petition to Spain for Its Repeal.

HAVANA, Feb. 25.—The cigar manufacturers held a meeting today, and adopted a petition for the repeal of the Tobacco Monopoly law of Spain, which was passed in January last. This law affects the tobacco interests unfavorably in Cuba.

FATAL ACCIDENTS.

Cyclone—Wreck of the Rob Roy Blown Out Near St. Louis—One Man Killed—Three Cars Burned on the Pan-Handle Railroad—One Man Injured.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 28.—About 5 o'clock this evening, as the steamer Rob Roy, bound to Keokuk, was passing Fort Washington-avenue, the steam blew out her drum-head, killing a colored man named WALT ROBINSON, and knocking overboard FRANK NASH, a camel-keeper, who was rescued. Two camels belonging to VAN AMBURG'S menagerie, on board the steamer at the time, were also blown overboard. The boat was immediately landed, and during the rush for the shore WM. MOFFATT, also connected with the menagerie, fell overboard with an infant in his arms, but both were rescued by MIKE GILLON, who plunged into the river and brought them both ashore. There was considerable excitement among the passengers. The damages will be repaired and the boat will resume her trip in the morning.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Feb. 28.—The fast-line train, on the Pan-Handle Railroad, going West, ran off the track near Mansfield, Penn., this morning, overturning one car, which, with two sleeping-cars, took fire and burned. But one passenger, JAMES CASSIDY, was injured, and he had his face slightly cut. GEORGE LOWE, a brakeman, was injured, but not seriously. The passengers lost but little property in the burning cars.

NEW-JERSEY.

Proceedings of the Legislature—Defeat of the Anti-Erie Bill—Vote of the Morris Canal Company Lease Bill—The Proposed State Board of Railroad Commissioners.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 28.—In the Senate, the Anti-Erie bill to repeal an act passed by the last Legislature, by which the Erie Railway Company was enabled to charge freights higher than they otherwise could, was lost. The Governor has vetoed the bill to permit the Morris Canal Company to lease their properties and franchises, on account of unfair preferences in the bill in favor of preferred stockholders over common stockholders. In the House, the New-ark Park bill was lost. A bill was introduced to repeal the Bridge Drainage bill for the Newark and Elizabeth meadows. Both Houses will go into joint meeting, to-morrow afternoon, for the election of Judges of Common Pleas and Commissioners of Deeds. The bill for a State Board of Railroad Commissioners is backed up by petitions, with over 10,000 names attached.

Mr. GARRAT has offered to the House a joint resolution in favor of the annexation of Staten Island to New-Jersey. He declared that Staten Island was largely in favor of such annexation.

ARKANSAS.

The Impeachers Overreached by the Senate—Curious Proceedings—Gov. Clayton Preparing to Go to Washington.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 27.—The Avalanche, Little Rock, special to-night says: A discussion took place on the motion made by Gov. CLAYTON, requesting the impeachment managers to appear at the bar of the Senate and announce the impeachment of the Governor and Chief-Justice; the motion heretofore given being illegal because no quorum was present when presented. The managers stated that they had given due notice. Whether there was a quorum or not was not their business. The motion was finally carried, most of the Democrats voting for it on the ground that the notice was illegal. There is a clause in the code which says this Senate may dismiss articles if not presented within five days after their passage in the House. There are also sundry rules which the absent Senators prepared in the swamps and passed on Saturday over the heads of a minority. The operation of these rules and the previous question render it impossible for the managers to prosecute the impeachment. One of the rules allows only one attorney on each side to make an argument, in thirty minutes. Another gives the majority power to rule out anything they desire by a majority vote. The managers refuse to obey the instructions of the House to notify the Senate again, and it is understood that they will, to-morrow, ask to be relieved, on the ground that it is impossible to get justice. It is said Governor CLAYTON is packing his carpet-bag, preparatory to leaving for Washington. This evening he sent a message to both the Houses announcing that he had signed the bill doing away with the fifty per cent. penalty for the honorable payment of taxes. Objections were made in both Houses on its reception.

Legislative Control of Railroads—Opinion of the Attorney-General of Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Feb. 28.—Gov. GEARY today sent a message to the Legislature, covering the opinion of the Attorney-General of the State, in answer to a resolution of the Legislature, in regard to the raising of tolls by coal railroads. The Attorney-General says:

I am of opinion as to all companies incorporated since the adoption of the Constitution of 1838, that a remedy for any injury to the public is entirely in the hands of the Legislature. The twenty-sixth section of article 1 of the Constitution says:

The Legislature shall have power to alter, revoke or annul any charter of incorporation hereafter conferred by or under any special or general law, when, even in their opinion, it may be injurious to the citizens of the Commonwealth; in such manner, however, that no injustice shall be done to the corporators.

The gist of the opinion is that the Legislature has control of the matter, and that when two or more companies combine to raise the tolls, their officers can be indicted for conspiracy.

The Billiard Tournament at Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 28.—At the billiard tournament, today, three games were played. GEORGE F. STORE, of Hartford, allowing odds of 200 to MATT HEWINS, of Hartford, won by a score of 2,001 to 885. Winner's average, 11¾; best runs, 96, 84, 61.

F. B. DENNISON, of Springfield, gave odds of 150 to GEORGE F. STORE. The game was won by the latter—1,000 to 489. Winner's average, 10¾; best runs, 171, 68, 63.

C. E. WILSON, of Providence, beat F. B. DENNISON, of Springfield, by a run of 500.

A Hotel in Iowa Burned—Two Lives Believed to be Lost.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 28.—A special dispatch from Ackley, Iowa, says the new Bowler House of that place was burned last night. EDWARD WILLIAMS, an omnibus-driver, and a young man named JOHNSON, are missing, and it is thought that they perished in the flames. Loss, $40,000; insured, $17,000. The house was new and built to replace one burned about one year since.

Miscellaneous Telegrams.

NORWICH, Conn., Feb. 28.—The carriage-shop of ROBINSON & MCCALL, at the Falls, and the adjoining dwelling-house were burned this morning. The total loss is $6,000.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 28.—The satinet mill at Monson, Mass., owned by C. W. HOLMES & SON, was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $30,000; insurance, $15,000.

Daring Larcenies in the City.

As Mr. SOLOMON SLOCUM, of Marietta, Ohio, was coming down town on a Fourth-avenue car, from the 11 P. M. New-Haven train, a dexterous pickpocket succeeded in unbuttoning his coat and stealing his watch, valued at $120. The despoiled owner had kept his hand closed upon his pocket-book while the thieves were taking his time-piece. Mr. SLOCUM notified the Headquarter detectives, who advised him to offer a reward that would tempt the thieves to restore the property.

Yesterday, while Mrs. RUTGERSWOOD STUYVESANT, of No. 245 East Fifteenth-street, was visiting a friend in East Forty-fourth-street, a sneak thief entered her carriage, at the door, and succeeded in carrying off a camel hair shawl, valued at $60, without attracting the attention of the coachman.

SMALL-POX.

More Cases Reported—How the Patients are Cared For.

There seems to have been no exaggeration of the alarming facts that have been mentioned in regard to the recent spread of pestilence in this City and adjoining places. In this City there are no new cases reported, and no immediate apprehension need be felt. In Hoboken several new cases have come to light. Four deaths have occurred since Sunday. The disease is greatly aggravated by the filthy, swampy nature of "the Meadows," westward of the city. This region is principally inhabited by the poorer classes, who are in constant danger from the miasmatic vapors.

The Flatbush Hospital has the largest number of cases. It is about four miles from the Fulton Ferry, just beyond the Brooklyn city line. There are accommodations for 120 patients. For ventilation, space, sun-light, water, and other facilities, it is well favored. There are various wards in the building, which are allotted to various kinds of infectious and contagious diseases. That portion given to the small-pox patients just now, is by far the most crowded. Yesterday five new cases of the latter disease were admitted. They were of a different and a much more malignant type than those previously received. There are now sixty-four cases, all of which are doing well, although fatal results may at any time cease. The physicians aver that these patients have progressed much more favorably than those treated in private houses—probably because of the superior training of the nurses.

Private physicians frequently conceal the existence of their cases from the public for the sake of the family, who revolt at the idea of hospital associations. Dr. COCHRANE promptly and every case that is reported, and if the locality is densely populated, and the type of the disease malignant, he removes it to the hospital or quarantine. A carriage and an ambulance are provided for the choice of patients. The origin of this pestilence is traced to the extreme eastern portion of Williamsburg, known as Dutchtown, where it first made its appearance. The clothing, bedding and effects of the patients is burned and not disinfected. Arrangements have been made to reimburse the poor for such losses. There are a large number of scarlet fever cases in the other wards of the building, most of which are of an ordinary type and are doing well.

LECTURES.

The Coming Man—Lecture by Rev. Dr. Osgood.

Rev. Dr. OSGOOD delivered the first of a course of lectures in aid of the free Church of St. Matthias, in the hall of Rutgers College, last evening, selecting for his subject "The Coming Man." He said this theme had been brought to his notice by being introduced, a few years since, to a sea Captain 103 years old, who had seen many of the distinguished men of the last century, and whose faculties were in such perfect condition that he was able to form accurate opinions of men of the present day. Great changes he must have witnessed; but how much greater would the change be were we able to look one hundred years ahead; or, to express it briefly, what would be the thoughts, feelings, and desires of an audience in this City, Feb. 28, A. D. 1971? Some children are now in their cradles who will witness these changes and what will they be? We may be assured that the type will be more intellectual. Tendencies are strong, and the tendency of our age is undoubtedly scientific or rational; even the Churches, from the Roman Catholic to the Puritan, are going that way, and the coming man will be to a great extent a rationalist upon theology. Yet, while rational, he will not lack faith and enthusiasm and thereby become rationalistic; but he will learn from facts to look beyond facts, and from knowing more of the truth than we know to worship, with greater zeal, the Father of all truth. In the affairs of every-day life the coming man will be very marked. Skillful physicians predict that amputation will have passed out of date, and others that the limit of human life will be increased to 150 or 200 years, by a corresponding increase in knowledge of the body and its ailments, certain to be reached by that time. In this respect, whether the coming man will have good cooks is a matter of greater importance than whether he will or will not use wine and tobacco. Freedom in its true sense, will be better recognized then than now, that is, the freedom which each man allows himself to act for the best and noblest of purposes, guided by a disciplined mind, perfect law being perfect emancipation. In social life the causes are even now at work which are to effect an assimilation of all the races, each retaining, at the same time, his individuality—mutuality it may be called; by its power the tormenting questions of capital and labor, are to be settled; the social evil abolished; marriage placed on a purer and more attractive basis, and business conducted less for private aggrandisement. It has been said that there is such a thing as progressive creation, and that a century hence there will be a better and a more elevated race, using those who may then live as we now are, for domestic animals, as we use the horse and cow. This, I need hardly say, is French; that it should be so is incredible, and we may safely believe that the coming man will be even as we are, having the same hopes, the same heaven the same God.

Alexandra Chapel, King-street, was crowded last evening by a respectable audience, who listened with much attention to a lecture on temperance by JOHN HALL, D. D. No harsh or unfeeling language, he said, should be used toward those afflicted with intemperance, as many who are unfortunately afflicted with that disease possess kind hearts, and have often been led into sin by attractive social qualities. The liquor traffic was a bad one, but he would not undertake to speak evil of any one engaged in it. A good many, he was saying, would be glad to give it up if they saw their way out of it. The lecturer pointed out the bad effects produced on man by intemperance, and related many instances of the evils which it wrought on respectable and educated friends of his in Ireland. He contrasted the death of the drunkard with that of a friend of his who, while laboring under brain fever, took away his medicine, and told them if they could for a moment hesitate to choose between the two forms of death. The drunkard was responsible for his death, but in the other case the disease was caused by God, and the man was not accountable for his actions. The mind of man should control the body, and appropriate truths should be brought to bear upon him by appealing to his reason and to his conscience, that he might be in a clear mind, a mind not already clouded by the influence of stimulants. The doctor spoke of the evils of intemperance in the family circle and of the difficulty of keeping the marriage vows when either the husband or the wife is a drunkard. He described three classes of drunkards—the good-natured, the quarrelsome and the religious drunkard, for, strange to say there are men, who do not talk of religion until they are drunk, when they become quite theological. He asked, how can a woman love, respect, or even be faithful to a man who has shown himself a brute? or how can children have the right feeling for the parents who are habitual drunkards? There cannot be home happiness where drunkenness has place and power, and drink in any shape should not be allowed to enter the happy home. He next pointed out the heavy burdens which the community have to bear and which are produced by intemperance. If he could receive the annual spent for drink in New-York he would undertake to pay all the doctors, all the Judges, support all the places of worship, double the salaries of all the ministers, support the prisons, asylums and other public institutions, and if he was allowed to keep the balance he'd be the richest man in Western Hemisphere. There is a common impression that drunkenness is the sin of the poor. This is a mistake, as in proportion to their numbers there is a greater amount of drunkenness among the rich than among the poor. The rich man can hide it but the poor cannot. Abstinence, complete abstinence, was the only cure for the upas tree. He asked them to unite and pledge themselves against the use of drink, and to enter their names on the total abstinence roll. In conclusion, the doctor condemned the practice of giving drink to visitors on New-Year's Day, and appealed to the ladies to abolish that injurious system in future.

Calico Hop of the Lincoln Union.

The members of the Lincoln Union, a large and flourishing organization belonging to the Ninth Ward, gave a calico hop at Apollo Hall last evening. There was a very fine company present, and the entertainment proved to be of a highly enjoyable character. The special feature was the extensive number of calico dresses and dress coats which were displayed on the occasion, and which made quite an attractive spectacle.

Dissatisfaction of the Rural Democracy With the Governor's Course.

The Income Tax Repeal Question—The Ring Job for Rapid Transit in New-York—Probability of Its Success—Gould and the Erie Directors' Bill—No Pole—His Faith in Tweed.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Tuesday, Feb. 28, 1871.

Whenever an opportunity offers, which is very seldom, to give Gov. HOFFMAN credit for a good act, or for omitting to do a bad one, he is sure to spoil it all before the ink is dry that records the well-meant praise. Thus, at the very moment your correspondent telegraphed the statement last evening that TWEED'S water job and the Broadway widening swindle had not yet received the Executive sanction, and that there was a bare possibility of their being vetoed, the Governor was engaged in putting his signature to them. The fact was duly announced in the Argus this morning, and took many people by surprise. The delay in the Governor's action had induced the belief on the part of many, including some of the Governor's best friends, that he would not give his approval to measures so objectionable in themselves, and whose passage through the Legislature was marked by such notorious and glaring features of bribery and corruption. But the presence of TWEED on the ground, yesterday, brought matters to an issue; the Governor's scruples, if he had any, were soon knocked out of his head, and he was forced to affix his signature to the bills before the "Boss" retired for the night. Immediately following this act of subserviency to the Tammany "Ring" it was natural, of course, to look for some ostentatious display of the veto power. Accordingly, no one, familiar with the tricks of his Excellency, was disappointed when his Private Secretary marched into the Assembly Chamber this morning bearing on his shoulders two ponderous vetoes—one of a bill authorizing the Board of Supervisors of Orleans County to build a lock-up at Medina, and the other of a bill to supply the village of Saratoga with pure and wholesome water. The veto of this last bill has given rise to a good deal of comment, and to some very pointed criticisms on the Governor's action, which it might have been beneficial for him to listen to. The bill was introduced by Mr. HILL, a Democrat from that district, and was urged by most of the leading men of Saratoga. "It has the same object in view for that village that TWEED'S Water bill professes to have for New-York; it has none of the objectionable features of TWEED'S bill, and, above all, it was not passed through the Legislature by bribery. Yet this is vetoed with a grand Gubernatorial flourish, while TWEED'S job receives Mr. HOFFMAN'S signature and becomes a law. It will not require many more acts like this, judging from the remarks made by Democrats in the Assembly today, to convince the rural Democracy of what many of them already feel to their shame—that the great Democratic Party of the Empire State has come to be a mere vassal of the New-York "Ring," and that its country members have no rights which TWEED, SWEENY, HOFFMAN & Co. are bound to respect.

INSTRUCTING CONGRESS.

The Senate occupied the entire morning session in discussing a resolution, offered by CREAMER, instructing our Senators and Representatives in Congress to use their influence to repeal the income tax. All were in favor of the resolution, but it was apparent that the Democratic side of the Senate desired to make a little party capital out of it; and this gave rise to a lengthy discussion, which ranged over the entire political field, from BUCHANAN'S Administration to the present time. A substitute was offered, conceding the original necessity of the income tax, but this was voted down by the Democrats. Finally, the original resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote.

STEAM TRANSIT IN NEW-YORK.

About twenty bills for steam railroads in the City of New-York, have been introduced this session, and are now in the hands of committees. They comprise every variety of railroad transit, including underground, tunnel, arcade, elevated, &c., &c., but the grand scheme introduced by GERRY, last evening, caps the climax of absurdity, and for that reason will stand the best chance of success. It proposes that the road shall be built by the City under the superintendence of the Ring, with a few millionaires thrown in as ornamental advisers, that it shall cost not exceeding ten million dollars, and that the City authorities shall have the whole charge of the road, when built, with power to regulate the fares, &c., &c., and pay over the profits, (!) after deducting the expenses, to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund. As will be seen, it would furnish one of the fattest jobs the Ring has had for a long time, besides providing a permanent field for official thievery and corruption. This is why the scheme will meet with favor in the Legislature. The only reason why New-York has not had rapid transit from the Battery to Harlem, long before this, is because no scheme has hitherto been concocted by which the road could be built by the Ring, and with the City's money. This bill of GERRY'S meets the emergency, and therefore its passage may be looked for with confidence.

A HEARING ON THE ERIE BILL.

The Railroad Committee have positively promised to give a hearing on GOODRICH'S bill to repeal the Erie Directors' act to-morrow morning. Mr. SOUTHMAYD, of the firm of EVARTS, CHOATE & SOUTHMAYD, will address the Committee. It is said that GOULD has concluded to make no opposition to the passage of the bill in the Assembly, but will rely on his fellow-director TWEED to kill it in the Senate.

Evening Session of the Assembly—Attempt to Make Democratic Capital—Arbitrary Ruling of the Speaker Pro Tem., and the Consequence.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 28.—The Assembly held an evening session, and considered a number of unimportant bills in Committee of the Whole. There was an interesting episode in the proceedings, arising out of an attempt on the part of the Democrats to make a little capital for FERNANDO WOOD and other Democratic members of Congress. Speaker HITCHMAN read a dispatch from Washington, announcing that the Ex-Mayor's resolution to repeal the duty on coal had passed the House of Representatives, and this was deemed of sufficient importance to call for a vote of thanks to the aforesaid FERNANDO, which HITCHMAN had embodied in the form of a resolution. ALVORD objected, and by the standing rules of the Assembly the resolution was objected to (!) over. But FIELDS, who had been called to the Chair by the Speaker, decided that they were in order, and that absent and military rules drew forth a scorching rebuke from ALVORD about the treatment which the minority had received from the Democratic majority in the Legislature. He warned them that if they continued thus to ride roughshod over the minority, and to violate the long-standing rules of the House, the time might come when they would be compelled to swallow a few doses of their own medicine. TOM FIELDS finally came to the rescue of the over-zealous Chairman, and extricated him from his dilemma, by, and the resolution was laid over under the rule. The Democracy in both Houses of the Legislature appear to have suddenly turned their whole attention to Congress, doubtless with the idea that they can thus divert the minds of the people from their own inanality. The feeble attempts made today to gain capital for their party, indicate the poverty of their resources in this line, together with the weakness and utter lack of ability of the men who now claim to lead the Democracy in this State.

REGULAR RECORD.

SENATE.....ALBANY, Tuesday, Feb. 28.

The following bills were introduced:

Authorizing the construction of a street railroad in the City of Albany.

By Mr. CAULDWELL—Regulating the opening of highways in the Spuyten Duyvil Creek and Fort Morris Railroad Company.

By Mr. LEWIS—To enlarge and improve the Lexington (the rural cemetery), in Rice County.

By Mr. TWEED—Repealing the act for improving certain streets in New-York, passed in 1870, so far as the same relates to Madison-avenue.

By Mr. LEWIS—Repealing the act to provide for the appraisal of canal claims against the State.

By Mr. PRESCOTT—Providing that the capital stock of the Commonwealth Insurance Company may be increased $500,000, and that the stockholders shall notify the directors of their desire to sell stock, and they shall direct the sale of the same within ten days.

By Mr. GRAY—Authorizing the Bank of Rochester of gold and stock brokers, providing that they shall be deemed continuous, and subject to their liabilities. They shall each pay a bonus to the State of $500, and give bonds to the State Comptroller, to make returns of all sales, which shall be subject to a State tax of 50 cents on each $10,000 of sales; also, providing for the election of officers of the Holy Trinity Church of Middle-town, Orange County.

By Mr. HARRIS—Making an appropriation to pay the expenses of calling the roll, and the superintendence of engrossing and enrolling, and authorizing a census for the fiscal year commencing Oct. 1, 1870, to be collected in the year 1871; also, providing for and confirm the action of the Commissioner of the Canal Fund, in providing funds for the above purposes.

By Mr. KENNEDY—Incorporating the University Railway Company of Syracuse.

BILLS REPORTED.

The following bills were reported:

Providing for repairing the piers, capping, piling, and flagging of certain streets in the City of New-York; to facilitate the construction of the Syracuse and Chenango Railroad Company; authorizing the appointment of additional clerks in the District Court of New-York.

THE BINGHAMTON WATER BILL.

The bill amending the Binghamton Water Supply act was passed.

TAX RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. LOEB offered the following:

Whereas, The income tax is a direct tax, and has become exceedingly burdensome upon the labor of the country, while all the evils of heavy taxation are aggravated by special laws and unjust exemptions, which tend to the multiplying of some of these evils, it is hereby

Resolved, (If the Assembly concur,) That the Senators in Congress from this State be, and they are hereby instructed to use their influence in Congress and efforts in procuring the passage of all necessary laws to impose and collect taxation upon all Government securities, and to repeal all laws which exempt corporations or corporations to such an extent and amount as will equal, as nearly as may be the aggregate amount of national and State taxation imposed upon other property.

Second—That we hereby instruct our Senators to pass at once the abolition of all legal duties upon coal, and thus relieve the laboring and poorer classes from one of the most oppressive burdens upon them, and of the possession of life.

Third—To oppose all donations of public land to corporations or individuals for any purpose of whatever character, and to adopt measures which will reduce to the minimum the amount of public lands to be granted to railroad companies, or the avails thereof, in all cases where the terms of the grant have not been strictly complied with. Tabled under the rule.

Mr. CREAMER offered a joint resolution, requesting the Representatives in Congress to vote for the repeal of the income tax. A long debate took place.

Mr. LEWIS moved the following as a substitute:

Whereas, The income tax was entirely necessary when adopted, and is now unnecessary, therefore our Senators and Representatives in Congress are requested to vote for its repeal.

This was lost by the following vote:

YEAS—Messrs. Bowen, Elwood, Harpendine, Kennedy, Lewis, Minor, Parker, Scott, Thayer, Winslow, Woodin—11.

NAYS—Messrs. Banks, Cauldwell, Creamer, Frost, Gray, Graham, Hardenbergh, Lord, Morgan, Norton, Pierce, Sanford, Tweed—13.

Mr. CREAMER'S resolution was adopted.

Adjourned.

ASSEMBLY.

The bill amending the charter of the Oriental Savings Bank of New-York, returned by the Governor, was amended by inserting the words "State of New-York" and repassed.

GENERAL ORDERS.

The following bills were disposed of as noted:

To protect logs secured in the Niagara River; referred to third reading. Authorizing the Supervisors of Justices of Peace, Constables, jurors, &c.; referred to a third reading. Authorizing the Syracuse and Binghamton Railroad Company to construct a railroad in Oswego; the Oswego Canal to be the First Ward of Syracuse; third reading. Authorizing the Governor and Senate to appoint an Inspector of Gas Meters; Tax Commissioner; third reading. Authorizing the Brooklyn and Albany Railroad Company to build; amending the charter of the Leather Bank of New-York; third reading.

YONKERS POLICE.

A bill was introduced by Mr. SCHIRMER to organize and establish a Police force for Yonkers.

VETOED BILLS REPORTED.

The Governor returned the bill authorizing the Supervisors of Orleans County to build a lock-up at Medina, without his approval, as the tax would be unjust. The bill was rejected. Also, the bill to incorporate the Granite Lake County, Saratoga, Company. The Governor's objection to this is that the titles vague and citizens are opposed to it. The bill was rejected.

The House took a recess till ½ P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

FERNANDO WOOD'S COAL RESOLUTION.

A dispatch received by the Governor from FERNANDO WOOD, announcing the passage by the House of Representatives of his resolution removing the duties on coal, was read to the House.

Mr. HITCHMAN offered a joint resolution thanking Mr. WOOD, and moved acting with him in carrying this repeal.

Mr. ALVORD objected to a consideration of the resolution at this time, as he wished to debate it.

Mr. FIELDS moved to lay all orders of business on the table, so as to take up the resolution, which was lost by 60 to 46—not two-thirds.

Mr. FIELDS moved to strike out the words "if the Senate concurs," so that the resolution should not be concurrent.

Mr. ALVORD raised the point of order that the resolution was not properly before the House.

The Chair (Mr. FIELDS) decided that it was properly before the House.

Mr. ALVORD appealed from the decision of the Chair.

Mr. LITTLEJOHN said that while he was prepared to

THE UNITED ITALY.

Transfer of the Capital to Rome—Providing for the Pope—Anxious Looks Toward France—Recognition of American Sympathy—The Broken Mesne of Marie and Grist.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FLORENCE, Tuesday, Feb. 7, 1871.

The Chamber promptly confirmed the amendments made by the Senate to the bill for the transfer of the capital, and that measure is now the law of the land. Signor GADDA, the Minister of Public Works, has left for Rome to prepare for the advent of the Government. Gen. LA MARMORA has come back to Florence, and the hereditary Prince is, for the time, installed as a novel military Viceroy of the Eternal City. The clerical party is to be made familiar by degrees with the royal rule, and as for the Romans themselves, there is among them an increasing feeling of content, now that the uncertainty is removed caused by the hesitation of the Government to act after Rome was occupied by the military forces. Certain placemen of the Crown have, with their desks and pagers, already been summoned to the new political centre, and others are preparing to follow. A special commission is to be created to have the general direction of the no trifling work of recasting the Government, and we have the promise that the present week shall not pass without a beginning being made.

GUARANTEES FOR THE POPE.

The first article of the scheme of law fixing the guarantees for the Pope has been voted by the Deputies, and the second is now under consideration. The sum named in the bill as the annual allowance to the Pontiff is somewhat more than three millions of francs. I have not noticed that any proposal has been made to reduce this amount, for the question is much less one of money than of making sure that there shall be no violation of the principle of liberty, either as concerns the Pontiff or the State. One of the first objects of the law is to secure the inviolability of the Pope in his person, and to place him in a position of dignity and honor not inferior to that of the Sovereign. The Constitution makes the King an almost irresponsible agent, and his person inviolate; alike exempt from criticism and ridicule. The purpose is to give to the Pontiff the same position of immunity; but in such a way as not to restrict the liberty of the Press, or expose it to the annoyance of frequent prosecutions. It is to this part of the project of law that the Deputies are giving careful attention. As the case is at present, without any legal enactment, the Pope is more broadly caricatured than any other leading personage, either in or out of the Kingdom of Italy; unless it be the fallen ISABELLA, or the Ex-Emperor NAPOLEON. All the ridiculous prints that have appeared here in the past half-dozen years would form a curious collection. Our devoted Irish friends, brought up at a distance from this central seat of Catholic influence, would be surprised to see to what lengths these more independent sons of the Church go.)

For the rest, it is now clear that this last of the three leading measures concerning Rome, will, before long, with modifications, become law. After that the Government and country will have to patiently wait, we do not know how long, to see if the Papal party will accept the reasonable terms of reconciliation offered to it. There, indeed, is the rub.

LOOKING TOWARD FRANCE.

The condition of France, and the prospect of peace or continued war, preoccupies attention here as much or more than at any time before. For Italy the most interesting thing to know is what kind of government is to succeed in that country, the present provisional direction of affairs, and what kind of relations are in the future to exist between Italy and France. There are those here, sympathizing with the Papal Party in its hopes of the restoration of the temporal power, who insist that after all her misfortunes, when she finds herself once more on her feet, France will again interfere in Italian affairs. These hold with obstinacy that to have the support of the clerical faction, the Government of France, whatever it may be, must avenge the occupation of Rome. To us there appears no probability that France will ever attempt to repeat so fatal an error; but to the passionate adherents of the ancient system, the certainty of such action is foolishly believed in. If France learns a single lesson of wisdom from present calamities, it seems as if it must be that of letting other nations manage their own affairs. We have been witnesses of the prudence and good sense displayed in her policy by Austria since the disasters which followed two unsuccessful wars;—cutting herself loose from Rome, and the baleful system of the Middle Ages. It is much more likely that France, when her fortunes are once more established, will follow rather than oppose the example of Italy. Escaped from a rule founded upon a violated oath, and for nearly twenty years maintained by falsehood, the people of France may find here a free Government, with a Sovereign at its head who has acted with honesty and been faithful to his word when others have been false, and given to monarchical Europe a fair model for imitation.

THE AMERICAN DEMONSTRATION OF SYMPATHY.

The great demonstration in New-York in favor of Italian unity continues to find an echo here. The greater part of the newspapers have published the account, and little doubt is now left on which side the real sympathies of the people of the United States are enlisted. In spite of adverse declarations, many times repeated, well-informed persons have known what the tone of America would be when the time came to speak.

MARIO'S VILLA.

Many who have visited Florence have made one of their pleasantest excursions in the charming suburbs, to the baronial villa Salviati, of late years the property and sometimes residence, of GRISI and MARIO. The house was built four or five hundred years back, and although considerable changes have been made in modern times, it still preserves the air of the feudal period. The death of GRISI a year or two ago, and MARIO pursuing his artistic career in foreign cities, and the children receiving an education more American or English than Italian, has broken up this home in which these two favorites of the lyric muse, in the quiet dignity of a retirement of opulent elegance, had hoped to end their days. Many visitors, in the past two weeks, have driven or walked out to the villa, to make an inspection of the great number of objects of fine and decorative art, now offered for sale. The chateau, also, is to pass into other hands. Some go to gratify curiosity, and others to purchase articles of taste or utility, to preserve as memorials of those who, in their time, have contributed so much to the enjoyment of those who find their most delicious solace in the musical art.

ITALIAN WEATHER.

The dreariest Winter known in a long Italian experience is drawing on toward its close, to the relief of foreign visitors and the [illegible] love [illegible] they may look [illegible] Winter on the sheltered side of every wall that [illegible] toward the south. But they really have less of the sun during the whole year than we do in our climate. Americans who come here are surprised to find themselves for many days under a cloud, while on the other side of the ocean the sun is making the frosty atmosphere sparkle with a crystalline splendor.

DETERIORATION OF MANNERS.

As much as we applaud Italy, and as warm as are our optimist hopes, a love of truth forces the confession that an evident deterioration of manners is going on. A few days' observation here in Florence, by one who has some knowledge of the language, is sufficient proof of this; and sad is the fact that the gravest evidence is furnished by boys who have hardly yet got beyond the years of adolescence. The most profane and obscene language assails your ears, and is written upon the walls of the town. Public decorum is disturbed by screams and yells fit for savage life, and reverence for persons, monuments, and institutions seems to be growing less and less. Here, also, numbers are found who are aspiring after that delectable, but somewhat paradoxical, state of society, in which everybody is as good as his neighbor and a great deal better. It cannot be said that democracy, which is running rampant over the world, is improving the minor morals of the population. There is more slang in journalism than there was, and politicians have less respect for each other. The democracy of the early epoch of our Republic, which, in WASHINGTON and his associates, gave the world such fine examples of manners, hardly finds imitators as further "progress" is made. The vulgarity of undisciplined individual assertion becomes every day more gross.

NON-EXECUTION OF LAWS.

But the most serious question of the moment here is not that of a deterioration of manners, but the laxness on the part of the authorities in the execution of laws for the protection of life and property. Years ago it was thought that the south of Italy was the part in which was found the greatest numbers of those needing always the strong hand of power to keep them from violating the rules and abusing the privileges of free society. But those who are now giving most anxiety to orderly citizens, and awakening the solicitude of the Government, are the populations of the Romagnia, a portion of the territory of the former Pontifical States. For some time acts of violence have been increasing, and the worst feature of this state of things is that it is becoming more and more difficult to obtain the arrest or conviction of the offenders in cases of assassination or highway robbery, or kidnapping to obtain a sum of money for ransom—a sort of crime peculiar to communities of the Latin race. There is no subject of local interest which at the moment so much engages the discussions of the newspapers. The Ministerial organ is the first to admit the magnitude of the evil, and to demand with a loud voice the adoption of thorough and energetic measures on the part of the authority. The President of the Cabinet has made it the subject of a discourse in Parliament, and a project has been devised which will soon be brought under discussion in that body. The legislation is to have special reference to the District of Ravenna, which city, with the neighboring one of Faenza, has given the most examples of criminal insubordination, and where rapid progress is making toward the breaking up of society. In that district, with a limited population, there were last year thirty-five cases of assassination and forty-three of man-killing, an increase of twelve cases of the former and ten of the latter over the number reported the previous year. Of highway robbery, the number of cases rose from 143 in 1869 to 327 in 1870. Of theft, 1,049 cases, or 247 more than in the previous year. But the worst fact of all is to be added. Of 2,228 prosecutions brought before the Tribunal last year, 1,446 fell to the ground, because witnesses could not be found to testify to the facts. Fear of vengeance shut the mouths of those with a knowledge of the truth.

REMEDIES.

The first object of the authority must be to dispel the prevailing terror and lift the morale of the public mind, so that justice may once more have free course. The liberty, of which the country enjoys so much, cannot be maintained without a Government of a robustness free from all sentimentalism and timid hesitation; ready to punish without cruelty, but with a sure and terrible severity, the enemies of society; and the principle is a sound one, whether applied for the protection of good citizens and of order at Ravenna or in the City of New-York. A doubt prevails whether the present Ministry has a courage quite up to the demands of the time; and such a doubt is calculated to destroy half the moral force of any council, whether State or municipal. I state facts and make criticisms with the same frankness, whether the same be on the side of the civil or clerical source of influence. The country is in a state of transition, and the clerical party has been so busy looking after the conservation of political interest, that it has been forgetful to a degree of the exercise of duties in its legitimate sphere. I have not the slightest doubt that when reforms now going on are perfected, and the new system gets into working order, if the ministers of the church sincerely accept it, and labor in their true sphere with becoming zeal, their influence and their power for good will be greater than ever before. The surest foundation upon which any society can be built is that which has for its corner-stone a true system of Christian morality, and this Catholic priests must labor for, thinking less of dogmatic theology and of the acquisition of political power.

THE CARNIVAL.

The carnival in Florence, so far, has been languid almost to sadness, and last Sunday the Corso was attempted in streets filthy with mud, accumulated during weeks of dripping rain. In-doors there has been more animation, and Americans here, in large numbers, with their elegant dancing parties and suppers, have contributed in good proportion to promote gayety; for which the newspapers from day to day give them credit.

ANGELICO.

Further information from Denver throws discredit upon the story sent by telegraph, that one F. C. CROSS, a young man from Massachusetts, attempted to rob an express-car on the Union Pacific Railroad, by gaining admission into it in a box to be sent as freight. He himself has said, since his arrest, that his funds were getting low, and that, finding his fare home would cost him $65, while the box could be sent for $20, he made the box and attempted to get a cheap passage to New-England. The Denver Tribune describes the interior of the box, and speaks of Cross thus:

In one end of the box is frame-work, netted with stout twine, a fine thing for the head to rest upon. The other end is the commissary. Here are bread, cakes, a can of butter, apples, and many little dainties for a long journey. [illegible] an odd sum and [illegible] suspicion [illegible] is the robbery—a [illegible] leaves no doubt that [illegible] He may be hopeful [illegible] was merely an effort to get a cheap ride to Boston. "The thing didn't work, and here I am." There are intimations current today that a part of this "cunningly-devised plan" was the robbery of the express. Those who know this young man can't believe that he is familiar with the wicked ways of the world. They look upon the whole thing as a kind of strange freak, done, as the young man expresses it, "partly for fun, and partly for economy."

MURDER OF PRIM.

The Assassination and Its Authors—The Republicans Guiltless.

From the London Echo, Feb. 16.

We have received anonymously, and purporting to come from an American sailor just arrived in London from Italy, the following extraordinary account of the plot, the murder, and the murderers of the late Marshal Prim. Internal evidence will justify an opinion that the document is one of very much importance. We publish it in the precise form in which it reaches us, but doubts accompany our knowledge as to the character of the source from whence the information is derived.

THE PRELUDE.

The King had been elected. High and noble aspirations had been crushed, as well as long-cherished plans frustrated for gratifying private ambition and advancement. Every lawful means had been resorted to to prevent the election, and now that the consummation was so near crime must do the rest. The criminals reasoned that the first step taken must be to murder Prim, who had most contributed to the failure of their hopes. They considered that the King, upon hearing that Prim had been killed in the streets of Madrid, would with good reason deem that he, a foreigner, and odious to the nation, must be the next victim, and would not even step on shore from the ship that brought him. And besides, the revolution (this was to follow the assassination in Madrid, would spread to the provinces, and the whole country would have risen against the King by the time of his landing.

THE PLAN

was first to murder Prim in his carriage. Then to take possession of the carriage, and drive to the Plaza de la Cebada, a square in the centre of a district where the lowest and most desperate classes of Madrid live. This square literally swarms with people at all hours of the day and evening. There the dead body was to be delivered to the mob, to be dragged through the streets, according to the custom of Spanish mobs on similar occasions. The rough Republicans would be excited into insurrection, to be joined by a number of soldiers and some officers, a revolutionary junta formed, and the rest of Spain would follow. Several important political men were to have been assassinated by the mob that night when the disturbance was at its height.

THE REALIZATION.

It will be remembered that it was snowing heavily in Madrid all the afternoon and evening of the day of the crime. There had been a lengthy discussion of some important measure in the Cortes, and when PRIM left the Chamber it was quite dark, about 7½ o'clock. On his way out he found a group of Deputies of different parties talking in the corridor. He distinctly said, as he passed, "If anyone is to me I heard something about guns. That concerns the Minister of War." The Deputies smiled in answer, and the General turned then to a Republican Deputy, and said, "Why do you not make up your mind to go with me to receive the King? It would be a pleasant little trip for you." The Deputies again laughed, and PRIM, passing on, said, "But, you Republicans, I tell you this in confidence, for this is I wish you that it will go hard with you." The Republican Deputy with whom he had spoken, followed him, and said a few words to him in a low tone. PRIM again laughed, and went on. Some Monarchists in their zeal have accused this Republican Deputy of being complicated in the assassination, and of having been a party to obtain Gen. PRIM's first leaving the Cortes for the lobby. But this is completely false. This Republican Deputy knew nothing of the plan. PRIM stopped to speak with the Deputies, instead of being stopped. He could have gone out by any other of the many corridors leading from the Chamber of Sessions, and it was perfectly indifferent to the assassin whether he left the building a few minutes later or earlier. When the General entered his carriage, a man standing near lighted a match, and another a short distance off did the same. A few paces further on, another match was lighted, and so on all the way to the corner of the Calle del Turco and the Calle de Alcalá, where the crime was committed. The matches were a signal to show that PRIM had left the Cortes and was in the carriage. It will be remembered that there were two subs looking in way at the Calle de Alcalá, one at the corner and the other near the corner. One had been taken by the assassins some time before, and by the hour. The others had nothing to do with the affair, and, coming up just as the General's carriage appeared in sight, waited, because it could not pass. When the victim's carriage was near, one of the conspirators deliberately took the horse which drew their cab, by the bridle and placed the vehicle right across the street. The cabman had been taken to a tavern, near, by some of the conspirators, and, as it was so cold and snowing so hard, was induced to take wine with them, and there he was in the tavern drinking when the crime was committed. When the General's carriage was stopped the Aide-de-Camp MOYA rose to ascertain the cause of the detention, and the gleaming of the gun-barrels in the uncertain light of the street lamp told him at once what was intended. He turned hastily to the General, and grasping his arm, cried, "My General, they are going to fire on us." Three men on each side slowly approached the carriage, and one of them, low in stature, broad-shouldered, and black-bearded, broke the window-glasses with the end of his blunderbuss, and looking in, said to the General, "Prepare thyself, for thou art going to die." PRIM then made a movement as if to throw himself on the floor of the carriage, but it was too late. In that very moment three charges entered the carriage from one side, all immediately after firing over charges thundered in from the other side. At the same time the coachman was lashing his horses to force them past the obstructing vehicle, and at the same time applied his whip right and left to the group of assassins around the carriage, and finally the horses dressed at the firing, dashed past the cab, throwing the coachhorse to the ground. The assassins, hearing the volley of PRIM, after the firing, as well as those of his Aides-de-Camp, knew that they had failed. PRIM was not dead. Therefore, the next part of the plan, to bring down the coachman and footman, and take possession of the carriage, to drive with the victim to the Plaza de la Cebada, was immediately abandoned. The parties at the square had promised to produce the insurrection the moment the dead body of PRIM should be delivered to them. There arises a complication. It is alleged that certain writers had promised to begin the revolution the moment of the assassination, but that they did not keep their word. They are accused of cowardice and shamefacedness, and their fellow-conspirators have vowed to take their lives. These writers have disappeared.

THE ASSASSINS.

The actors who took an ostensible part in the deed were numerous. There were, first, those who formed the line from the Cortes to the Calle de Alcalá, who signaled with the lighted matches. Then there were those who drank and junketed with the coachman, and those who fired into the carriage. There were, besides, others stationed in a carriage near, in the Calle de Alcalá, who are to proceed to another square called the Plaza de Santo Domingo, as soon as they heard the firing, and commence the insurrection there too, but these, it seems, lacked courage, and failed to keep their engagement. Others were similarly stationed in the Carrera de San Gerónimo, near the Cortes, who were to proceed to the Plaza de la Cebada at the moment of the firing. These went, but as the victim was not presented they could do nothing. The assassins separated immediately upon the consummation of the deed. The principals went down the Calle de Greda to the Prado, and along the Prado to the Calle de Atocha, which they followed for a certain distance, and thence turned off to a tavern in the district before mentioned as occupied by the poorest and lowest classes. This part of the city is designated as "Los Barrios Bajos." Here the murderers quietly awaited the communication which were to join them there. Upon the arrival of the latter supper was ordered, and while all Madrid was in a state of intense excitement, they made a hearty meal of beans, with pigs' feet, bread and wine. The tavern-keeper suspected nothing while they were there. He is a staunch Monarchist. The next day it flashed before him that his customers of the night before must have been the assassins, and he was right. He knows them all perfectly well, but has been generous enough not to denounce them.

THE RINGLEADERS.

Who devised and executed the crime? For the first, certain personages of undefined political creed, in union with certain white-gloved demagogues of Madrid. There was among the assassins a tall, one-eyed, light-haired man. This same man had, a few days previous to the murder, insulted some of the Monarchical Volunteers of a certain district of Madrid, at a place where they were in the habit of meeting, calling them "slavish Royalists," and had challenged them to "come out and fight him one by one." This person, so marked as to his personal appearance and very well known in Los Barrios Bajos, would furnish an important clue to any but the Madrid Police. The volunteers of that district all know the man, and must remember when he insulted them, as it was only a few days before the deed was committed. That person is no longer in Madrid. A subscription was taken up for him, amounting to $70, in that same district where he supped that night on beans and pigs' feet, and with that sum he was enabled to escape from Madrid. A notary of Madrid, on reaching his office one morning, noticed that one of his clerks had shaved his beard and mustache. This, with the fact that the man had left Madrid, aroused his suspicions. The clerk suspected that the notary—a liberal—was the author of the crime. He gave the hint to his employer, who took the hint, and, upon inquiry, found that the clerk was merely a coward. He could be made to tell all he knew. He gave the name of the man who had shaved his beard and mustache the day after the crime, and who was threatened with death if he spoke of it again; the keeper of the tavern near the scene of the crime, where the cabman was drinking with some of the conspirators at the time of the assassination; the keeper of the tavern in Los Barrios Bajos, where the assassins took supper the night of the crime; a subscription in Los Barrios Bajos toward the escape of the tall, light-haired, one-eyed man.

THE REPUBLICANS GUILTLESS.

The crime is wrongly attributed to the Republicans. The Republicans, as a party, have had nothing to do with the crime. The instruments were chosen from men of the very lowest class, who call themselves Republicans, for, in Spain, all the poorest, the lowest and the most degraded, those who have nothing to lose, have taken to styling themselves Republicans. This is the great misfortune of the Republican Party.

CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA.

Late Spanish Intelligence.

From the Panama Star & Herald.

By the steamship Guayaquil which arrived here on the evening of the 13th, we have dates from the interior to the 24th January last. With regard to affairs in Boyacá, a correspondent of the Bien Publico, of Bogotá, writing from Chiquinquirá, Jan. 17, ult., says a provisional government regularly organized, and with armed forces in its favor, overran the departments, and have gained victories in the field. On the 8th ult. Dr. FORTUNATO FLORES was proclaimed Provisional President, and Secretary-General Dr. J. J. VARGAS. On the 9th fifty men marched over to Moniquira; two days after the number increased to 100, who took the direction of Chiquinquirá, where they met with a part of the Government forces, which, however, withdrew to Tunja. The Provisional Government is at present (Jan. 17) in the Chiquinquirá with 300 men. An attack was made by the Government forces against the revolutionists in Sogamoso, but failed. The revolution of Boyacá, says the correspondent, has on its side members of all political parties, and has nothing to do with Mosquerismo, but rests on the deposition of Señor PARRA as having lost the confidence of the State. The revolutionary party has committed no excesses, imprisoned no one, and respected property, and has the sympathy of the majority of the citizens of the State. The column of Tundama has 300 men, and that of the centre eighty, under the command of Dr. F. PUROZA, and 150 at Sogota, under Messrs. PIÑON and MOZARD. The Bien Publico of the 18th ultimo, publishes a letter dated Guayaquil, 9th November last, directed to a Señor PONTON, in Bogotá, in which it is stated that President GARCIA MORENA arrived suddenly at that port on the 8th of January, and put in arrest Gen. J. M. URAGA, the Chief of the Police, and other Government employés. The Republic was declared in a state of siege, and Gen. URAGA was sent to Quito under arrest. Dr. CHEVALIER, able, says the writer, to find out the true causes of these arrests, but it is reported that a plot had been discovered in which Gen. URAGA promised to deliver up the port into the hands of the enemies of President MORENO, for which he was to receive 50,000 soles from Peru; in a short time to settle the "Government." The Telegraf of Bogotá of the 19th January, a paper in favor of the candidature of Señor SANTIAGO PEREZ, has the following about that of Dr. JUSTO ARGOSEMENA: "The candidature of Dr. JUSTO ARGOSEMENA has been adopted in the States of the Coast, according to a sheet dated Santa Martha, and printed in Barranquilla. Although this sheet has no signatures there is no doubt that the distinguished citizen, Señor ARGOSEMENA, has many sympathisers in those States. We would regard the elevation of this gentleman to the Presidency of the Union, if such is the will of the nation, with as much pleasure as our own candidate. The indisputable personal merits of Señor ARGOSEMENA, the political school to which he has always belonged, and the circumstance of his candidature having nothing official in it are for us sufficient guarantees." About the revolution in Boyacá, the Telegraf says that it presents all the characters of a reaction essentially Mosquerista—all the chiefs of the revolution being of this party, and they will try to get the State to declare for Gen. SANTOS ACOSTA as candidate for President of the Union.

Central America.

From a circular issued at Nicaragua the 28th of January last, we find that one of the first acts of Congress, now in session, has been to declare Don VICENTE QUADRA President elect of the Republic of Nicaragua from the 1st of March next to the last of February, 1874. Don VICENTE QUADRA is one of the most prominent men of the country, and has gained the confidence of the people by his merits and attecedents.

Señor QUADRA did not wish to accept the honor, and wished to send in his resignation, but was induced to obey the wishes of the country. Out of 85 votes for President, only 3 were for other candidates. Great enthusiasm was shown in Granada at the news of the election of Señor QUADRA. Mr. HOLINBECK, the director of the company to navigate by steam Lake Nicaragua and the River St. John, had arrived at Leon. The line is fully established, and makes regular voyages. Mr. HOLINBECK intends also to put a steamer on Lake Managua.

COSTA RICA.

The Gaceta Oficial of Feb. 4, says with respect to the question which has arisen between the Republic and that of Nicaragua, concerning the Ayon-Chevalier interoceanic Canal Treaty, that the difficulty hinges on the following propositions: First—The project of treaty celebrated between the Plenipotentiaries, D. A. JIMENEZ and D. MARIANO MONTEALEGRE, for the excavation of an interoceanic canal through the territories of Costa Rica and Nicaragua, is in the projected form. Second—Since Costa Rica, as a sovereign Republic of Costa Rica, had a perfect right to declare null the project of treaty, when the Decree of 23d November last year, was issued, and third, that the mode of proceeding in the emission of this decree was legal. As to the first proposition it is received that by article 26 of the project Costa Rica is bound to make a similar canal concession, not construct a railroad from any point of the Pacific to San Juan on the Atlantic. The privation of this right would not have mattered much if there had been no existed any chance of a canal being undertaken. Mr. CHEVALIER, after endeavoring for years to form a company to undertake the work, failed; but throw the blame of this failure on Costa Rica, because she had withdrawn her consent to the ratification of the treaty. Finally the Official Gazette concludes by saying, that the Costa Rica Government never made any treaty with Mr. CHEVALIER, whom it does not know either by sight or correspondence. It merely celebrated the preliminary treaty with the Government of Nicaragua, from which, as prejudicial to Costa Rica, it withdrew. The Minister of Foreign Relations, in replying to an explanatory note from the Government of Salvador as to the causes of the quarrel between it and Honduras, says the Government of Costa Rica sincerely desire a friendly feeling between Salvador and Honduras, and offers its mediation, if acceptable to both.

GUATEMALA.

Our correspondent in Guatemala, under date of the 31st of January last, says that during the month which terminates at this date, the Legislative Chamber of Representatives has been occupied in affairs which the Government had submitted to its consideration, as well as in those initiated by some of the members. The Budget for the fiscal year has been approved; the liquidation and inversion of the funds proceeding from the loan contracted in London in 1869; also, the Money law and other matters. The Republic progresses in peace, and the inhabitants are devoting themselves to agriculture, trade and industry. The harvests of cochineal, coffee and sugar are likely to be abundant. There has been no alteration in the peace of the other Republics of Central America, for although a difference has arisen between Salvador and Honduras, which threatens to disturb the previous good understanding between them, both have accepted the mediation of Guatemala, which is now endeavoring to procure a pacific settlement of the dispute.

SALVADOR.

The Constitucional of Feb. 2 has an article on the situation of the Republic, from which, bearing in mind the warlike rumors which had reached us and confirmed by the arrival of the steam-ship Costa Rica, we have extracted it for some light on the subject. The Senate of the Republic of Salvador, considering the alarm which prevails in the Republic, owing to the warlike preparations which have been going on in and by the Government of Honduras since the month of December last, and without any justifiable motive, has decreed that the Legislative Chambers suspend their meetings on the 21st January last, until again convoked by the Executive. Passports are to be demanded from all persons passing the frontiers, and traveling between the towns of the Department of the Union, San Miguel, San Vicente and Chalatenango, which passports are to be obtained from the Governors of Departments of the towns last left. Dr. DON RAMON ESPINOSA has been named Minister of War. With respect to the quarrel between Salvador and Honduras, the Gazette says that the Government of Guatemala addressed itself to that of Honduras on the first of December last, proposing a means of settling the difference between the two Republics; the mediation was accepted on the 18th of January by the Honduras Government, according to communications received on the 26th of the same, in the Ministry of Relations, and it is believed a pacific arrangement may yet be arrived at. But as Honduras has forces on the frontiers, Salvador has put itself on guard, and is preparing troops sufficient for defense, in case it should be attacked.

Every exchangeable value tells in an indestructible series of transmutitions always going on in the world's laboratory of economical forces."

The Washington Chronicle says that when Mr. HENRY D. COOKE was told by a private telegram of his nomination as Governor of the District of Columbia, he replied that he could only say what he said to the President on Saturday, that he could not accept the appointment if offered to him, as it would place him in an unpleasant position with a large number of friends. The opinion was expressed, however, by several persons who are in a position to know the views of Mr. COOKE, among them one or two officers at the White-House and a member of the Cabinet, that Mr. COOKE could be persuaded to accept the appointment.

CARRIE KETCHUM, the young woman in New-Orleans who, about a year ago, was stabbed and wounded nearly unto death by her former lover, and who refused to utter a single word in the Courts in condemnation of him, although she was thrice sent to prison for contempt of Court, was arrested in the same city a few days ago as a vagrant. In the prison she was greatly affected and assured the Recorder that she was no vagrant; that she had been arrested for spite or malice, and that when the officer took her she was on the way to make some small purchases for her employer.

A fire in Springfield, Ill., on Thursday morning, was very destructive. A large amount of printed matter, belonging to the State, and in the hands of the binders, was burned, and as the rooms of the four Masonic Lodges, as well as those of the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge, was in one of the buildings destroyed, all their records and reports, and their library were lost. The library was very rich in reports of the proceedings of Grand Lodges from all parts of the world, and it contained a great many handsome works, some of these being unique, and all very rare and valuable. There was no insurance on the library, or other valuables in this office.

From the Philadelphia Record, Feb. 27.

At 8½ o'clock yesterday morning an attempt was made to murder Miss MAGGIE CAHEN, twenty years of age, by smothering her with pillows while she was still asleep in bed. It is alleged that the young lady's mother and brother, ABRAHAM CAHEN, made the attempt to murder her, and they have both been placed in custody. The affair occurred in the family residence, on Hope-street, above Girard-avenue. The motive of the would-be murderers is stated to be their aversion to Miss CAHEN's receiving addresses from a young Christian gentleman, she and her family being Israelites. The injuries to Miss CAHEN are quite serious, but late last evening her attending physician expressed hopes of her ultimate recovery.

A RESPITE FOR RULLOFF.

Hearing before Hon. Charles A. Rapallo—Writ of Error and Stay of Proceedings Granted—A New and Interesting Question of Law.

At noon yesterday, P. W. HOPKINS, Esq., District Attorney of Broome County; CHARLES L. BENEDICT, Esq., of Hudson; and GEORGE BROOKS, Esq., of Binghamton, counsel for the condemned murderer, EDWARD H. RULLOFF, repaired, in accordance with previous notice, to the residence of Hon. CHARLES A. RAPALLO, No. 17 West Thirty-first-street, to argue a motion for a writ of error and stay of proceedings.

The matter was heard informally by Judge RAPALLO. The argument made for the condemned embraced the same points substantially made before the Supreme Court in General Term, a few days ago, when a new trial was denied. It was especially urged that there had been error in admitting evidence to establish the identity of the two drowned burglars, JAMES and DEXTER, by means of photographs. Another alleged error was in the fact that Judge HOGEBOOM had submitted to the jury the consideration of the question of murder in the first degree, as the evidence showed that the prisoner, if guilty at all, was guilty only of murder in the second degree, or at most one of the grades of manslaughter. It was also alleged, as a ground of Judge HOGEBOOM to admit the evidence regarding the finding of burglars' tools in the room of Mr. LOEW, at No. 110 Third-avenue, by Capt. HAYMAN, it was not so strong reason for a review of the proceedings, that the evidence showed that the clerks had used more violence than was necessary to expel the burglars from the store, and that the trial occurred in the midst of a public excitement which made it impossible for the prisoner to obtain a fair hearing. Upon the latter point Mr. BROOKS offered to read an affidavit, showing the outburst of applause in the Court-room during the trial, but Judge RAPALLO declined to hear it, and said generally, upon all these points of the case, that all the facts had been settled by the jury, and he assumed, had been settled correctly. They probably could not be brought up on a writ of error.

In combating the propositions of the counsel for the defense, District-Attorney HOPKINS contended that all the rulings in the Oyer and Terminer before Judge HOGEBOOM were correct. He then took up each point made by the defense separately, and argued it briefly and well taken, and that the prisoner had had a fair trial and had no cause of complaint. He also held that the Court of Appeals could not possibly come to any different conclusion than had been reached in the General Term, as there was certainly no error in admitting the establishing of identification by means of photographs, as facts had been established in civil cases, by means of photographs.

Having listened attentively to the gentlemen, Judge RAPALLO said that some of the exceptions presented were new, which it would be well to have decided in the Court of Appeals. This was especially the case as to the point of identification by photographs, which is entirely novel in criminal practice and very important generally, although in the case at bar there was evidence enough without these photographs to establish the identity of JAMES and DEXTER. He said further that it had never been decided by the Court of Appeals what Judge might say to a jury in reference to an intention to avoid the prisoner in his own case, but he was of opinion that if the present case Judge HOGEBOOM had corrected any error he might have made in his subsequent remarks, when his attention was called to what he had said. He concluded by saying that he had not the least doubt in his own mind of the guilt of the prisoner, and the only question for review was whether he had been legally convicted, and whether the prisoner might have every benefit, he said that he would grant the writ of error, with a stay of proceedings, and fixed the hearing of the case peremptorily before the Court of Appeals, at Albany, on the 18th of March next, and this was granted upon a written stipulation given by the counsel for the People, to District-Attorney HOPKINS, that they would bring the case to an argument on that day. In case they do not, it was distinctly understood, that Mr. HOPKINS was at liberty to then move to dismiss the writ.

The legal effect of the action of Judge RAPALLO is, of course, to indefinitely postpone the execution of RULLOFF, which had been fixed for Friday next. Mr. BROOKS left last evening for Albany to get the seal of the Court attached to the writ, and will arrive in Binghamton in time to serve it on Sheriff MARTIN before the day fixed for the execution. In case the verdict is sustained by the Court of Appeals, RULLOFF will be taken to Elmira in April to be re-sentenced in the Supreme Court General Term.

RELIEF FOR FRANCE.

An Appeal to the Farmers—General Call from the Chamber of Commerce Committee—Contributions.

The Chamber of Commerce Committee for the Relief of France publish the following appeal prepared by Mr. CAPRON:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.

To the Farmers of the Country:

The wants of the peasant farmers of Northern and Central France rendered imperative by the spoliations of war, appeal to the sympathies and benevolence of Americans, who can never forget the disinterested services of Frenchmen in our early struggle of the national independence. The season of seed time is approaching and the supplies of seed to insure a harvest and avert a famine must, in a large measure, come from England, Belgium and America. In this generous national rivalry it is to be hoped that this country will not be distanced. The New-York Chamber of Commerce offers to give free transportation to France, through its Relief Committee, to all grains and seeds contributed, and will pay freight charges to New-York on any invoice exceeding 100 bushels; but local dealers should arrange with interior railroads for free transportation, if possible, to New-York City. The best local varieties of Spring wheat, of last year's crop, sound and free, are especially desirable, yet Winter wheat may be contributed where Spring wheat is not attainable. The hardiest and most productive oats, as the "Excelsior," "Swedish," "Surprise," or "Norway," the most thrifty kinds of barley, and the most from the Circuit Court for the District of Louisiana.—The complaint in this case was company of a one-third interest in the railroad owned in the State, which had been assigned to by one Graham, who, with one May and Beauregard, were the owners of the lease of the road for a period of twenty-five years, and the action was brought to compel the Company to recognize the transfer. On the trial it appeared that May had paid in all the money which stood on the books in the name of Graham, and it was claimed therefore that the latter had only a general interest, and the bank sent neither by the assignment. It also appeared that the money was paid to Graham out of the funds in the bank, which were attorneyed such and otherwise secured. On these facts the Court held the complainant to be without equity as against the Railroad Company, and dismissed the bill as to it; with leave to the complainant to bring suit against Beauregard (May was dead) in behalf of himself and of the partnership interests. Appeal was taken to this Court. May having been Assistant Treasurer at New-Orleans, and owing indebted to the Government by defalcation, transferred all the property, including his two-third interest in the lease of one-third which was nominally Graham's, to the United States, by which it was claimed that the transfer was void as against the Government and the creditors, and who were made defendants. This made it necessary for the Attorney-General to appear in the case to prove the rights guaranteed by the Government, and as counsel for those defendants.

E. Pierrepont for appellants; R. G. Ostergold and J. M. Carlisle for appellees.

COURT OF APPEALS.

ALBANY, Feb. 28.—The following order has been made by the Court:

That appeals from orders entitled to be heard as motions may, upon the requests of either party, after the filing of the return, be put upon the calendar, noticed and brought on for hearing on motion day.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Sutherland.

THE HOGAN WILL CASE—FAMILY QUARRELS—IMPORTANT LETTER OF THE DEAD.

Sarah C. Hatch et al., vs. Clara M. Feugent et al.—The principal parties are children of Dr. and Mrs. Hogan. Dr. Hogan, before his death, conveyed certain property to his wife, and left by his will other property to her. A sudden death cut him off in 1867. His widow, Mrs. Hogan, gave up to her children, under the advice or urgency of Roswell D. Hatch, the husband of one of her daughters, some of this property. A third daughter went into the Convent of the Sacred Heart.

When Mrs. Hogan died, her will was found to have certain legacies, including one to that convent, and the rest of the property to her daughters, Clara (Mrs. Feugent) and Sarah (Mrs. Hatch). Mrs. Hatch and her husband at once commenced a suit to set aside her mother's will on the grounds of imbecility and undue influence. The trial was commenced on Wednesday, the opening being mainly an effort to show that the arrangement after Dr. Hogan's death was proper and satisfactory to Mrs. Hogan.

The first witness was Mrs. Hatch herself, who was kept on the stand for nearly four days, and in the course of the cross-examination she following remarkable letter of Mrs. Hogan, made almost contemporaneously with her will, was produced on cross-examining Mrs. Hogan's feelings:

MY DEAR CLARA: Never any important act or any Providence to direct me, that He will say be done. I have prayed and His mighty influence over me and all my acts; and now may God grant that when I am dead and gone, you will be as happy as I have been. Sarah has married and left me free, with an light survey, the portion I should like so much to have given or left to her after my death; but of this you, my child, I know, I have never known, she was in her mind, and had been from her infancy, a Protestant, and I, a Catholic, believing I could have no influence, at least with that portion of the property, but to injury, I thought it best to leave her, I should have so little left, that I deprive her of nothing. I shall trust my heart to God, and pray for her. Nothing shall prevent me from my children, and I am sure, believing it to be her vocation to do so, pails in truth if not only the beginning of a convent education. Had we intermarried in any degree with her institution and family, I have might then have been some reason for my leaving her, but I have not, and I feel, by God, in His presence, gave her to and permitted to remain with her as long, while so many deserving have not been granted either the one or the other. I have not been granted even half as much, for her as we did. She could have loved God just as much, and He would have loved the sunny, but she is natural. Katie was taken care of by her mother. He gave her to me. Katie was from her birth, and was always what she is now. Sarah, I feel, is a regular Catholic raised from all that was dear to her in this world. She would have more good in the world by her good example, more good in her world by her good example, if she should be married, than here, a greater comfort to me. I had not the courage to bring her from God, but I stand say that I did not the effort to give her up to the spiritual and temporal, human, I feel, is right, and God only knows why it was permitted. I have had my will made by a lawyer, that there may be no cavil, and I am writing about it after my death, as I have left all that belongs to Sarah (Mrs. Hatch) in her hands, which will be a guide to you to follow out my wishes. As I could not tell exactly what I should have, I said in all my expenses that should are paid, if I die in the Spring I shall have, and if I live to make this will pay all my bequests, but I give to myself if of course I shall have less to leave, at that, I can trust and rely on my children, for I know no account of any loss or losses which may happen thereto. Sarah, I know, will be satisfied, and I know you shall never be disappointed in my intentions, or your shall never be in fault and, and every of the legacies or bequests, I have given, either payment and in each case, I have given, and in each case, I have given, and in each case, I have given,

NEWS OF THE DAY.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

In the French Assembly, yesterday, President THIERS read the conditions of peace by which France cedes one-fifth of Lorraine, including Metz, Thionville, Longwy, and Saarlouis, and all of Alsace, except Belfort, and pays five milliards of francs indemnity—one milliard this year and the balance in three years. The German troops will withdraw from French territory as the indemnity is paid. The Departments south of the Seine will be evacuated when the treaty is ratified, and the other Departments when five hundred millions of the indemnity are paid. The fortresses will be occupied until the entire indemnity is paid. M. ROTHSCHILD says he will pay the entire indemnity within a year, and the German army of occupation will be got rid of as soon as possible. The armistice is prolonged until March 12. The Germans attacked Havre in ignorance of the prolongation, but were checked by a flag of truce announcing the news. The Saxon, Baden, Bavarian and Wurtemburg troops are to take part in the triumphal entry into Berlin. A Versailles telegram says all the preparations by the Germans to enter Paris are made, but the order has been deferred until today. The excitement in the city is still very great, but there was no disorder throughout Monday. A manifesto, signed by the editors of forty journals, exhorts the people to be calm and dignified under the approaching trial. The Bourse and theatres will be closed during the German occupation of the city. The German troops will be confined to their quarters while in the city. The powder magazine at Villette has been plundered by the soldiers.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The Spanish difficulty with Egypt is likely to be amicably settled, as Spain has accepted the offers of mediation.....Agrarian outrages are reported from various parts of Ireland, and a few persons have been killed.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, the Conference Committee on Appropriation bills were appointed. The bill for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals on Railroads was considered, but no vote reached. The Army Appropriation bill was then taken up. An amendment directing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay over to the Pacific Railroad one-half the compensation for services rendered to the Government, gave rise to considerable debate, and was finally adopted by a vote of 29 to 18. In the evening the consideration of the bill was continued, and an amendment was proposed extending the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to the case of loyal citizens of the South. This was debated at length, but not disposed of.

In the House, Committees of Conference on several Appropriation bills were appointed. Several bills were passed, among them that relating to a centennial celebration at Philadelphia in 1876. The motion of Mr. DAWES to reconsider the Sundry Civil Service Appropriation bill then came up, and was agreed to. A substitute was then offered, leaving out all the provisions for new buildings, with the exception of those previously authorized. A motion to strike out the appropriation for League Island was rejected, and the substitute was then adopted and the bill passed. A Conference Committee on the Southern Pacific Railroad bill was ordered after some discussion. The bill authorizing the consolidation of the Cincinnati and Southern Railroad was passed by a vote of 141 to 62. A motion to repeal the rules and pass the bill for the protection of loyal citizens failed by yeas 127, nays 64. The rules were suspended and the bill repealing the duty on coal passed by a vote of 144 to 45. To-

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

Among the bills introduced in the Senate yesterday, were one by Mr. TWEED to repeal the act for improving certain streets in New-York, passed in 1870, in so far as relates to Madison-avenue; one to increase capital stock of the Commonwealth Insurance Company $600,000, and one by Mr. GERRY defining the duties and liabilities of gold and stock brokers, providing that they shall be deemed subject to their liabilities. The bill authorizing the appointment of additional clerks in the District Courts of New-York was reported. Resolutions requesting our Representatives in Congress to urge the passage of laws taxing Government bonds, to secure the abolition of all the tariff duties on coal and other legislation, were offered and went over under the rules. Another, requesting them to vote for the repeal of the income tax was adopted after debate. In the Assembly a bill was introduced to establish a Police force for Yonkers. Two unimportant bills were returned with objections by the Governor, and the bills were rejected. The House then took a recess till evening. At the evening session a dispatch was read from Hon. FERNANDO WOOD, announcing the passage in Congress of the resolution to remove duties on coal. A joint resolution of thanks was offered by Mr. HITCHMAN. Mr. ALVERY objected, as he wished debate upon it, and it went over after a strong opposition.

GENERAL.

In the New-Jersey Senate, yesterday, the bill to repeal the act of last session under which increased freight-rates on the Erie Railway were imposed, was lost. The Governor yesterday vetoed the bill permitting the Morris Canal Company to lease their properties and franchises on account of unfair preferences in favor of preferred over common stockholders. A joint resolution in favor of annexing Staten Island to New-Jersey was offered in the House.

The Joint Committee of the Legislature began the investigation into the New-Hamburg disaster, yesterday, at Albany. One witness produced the watch of the deceased engineer, Simmons, which was found to have stopped at 10:25 P. M., seventeen minutes after the train was due at that point. The investigation will be resumed today.

The Indiana House of Representatives met yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, and, after a short address, the Speaker declared the House adjourned without day, the Senate having adjourned the day before sine die.

Gov. HOFFMAN has signed the following bills: For widening Broadway, New-York City; for further supply of water to New-York City; for completion of the Court-house in the Third Judicial District, New-York.

Capt. ARTHUR, of the British ship Mary Sharp, was convicted, in the United States Circuit Court, in San Francisco, on Monday, of resisting the Custom-house officer, and landing a cargo in defiance of the orders of the inspector.

Three more jurors in the Fisk case were obtained yesterday in Albany, making ten in all.

The steamers of the Norwich line came up to their wharf yesterday, in Norwich, for the first time since the closing of navigation by the ice.

A half square between Frenchman, Roman, Union and Dorlumy streets, New-Orleans, was burned on Monday night. Loss $50,000; mostly insured.

HENRY C. ROBINSON was yesterday nominated by the Republicans for State Senator in the Hartford District of Connecticut.

The movement for the impeachment of Gov. CLAYTON, and the Chief-Justice of the Supreme Court of Arkansas, seems to have failed, through the action of the absent Senators, who are said to have adopted rules in the swamps, which made it impossible for the minority to proceed. Gov. CLAYTON is said to be preparing to leave for Washington.

The fishery question was discussed in the Canadian Senate on Monday night. A French Senator said England would sanction the fancies before going to war. The Minister of Marine and the Fisheries repudiated the idea.

The Pennsylvania Coal Company's miners met at Pittston on Monday, and refused to mine by the car, the terms offered by the company.

A train on the Pen Handle Railroad ran off the track near Mansfield, Penn., yesterday morning, and one passenger and two sleeping cars were burned. But one person was injured.

French Taxation and the Terms of Peace.

The pecuniary indemnity which Germany demands of France is simply enormous. There is, after the declaration by M. THIERS, no reason to doubt that it has been correctly reported. France has purchased peace, therefore, at a price which seems absolutely ruinous, and which, if ever paid, will give her the unenviable distinction of having the heaviest public debt in the world. At the beginning of 1870 the official statement of the public debt shows a total of $2,000,000,000. During 1870 three loans were contracted which, when capitalized, will amount at least to $400,000,000. The war expenditure, which the nation has still to cover by a duly authorized loan, cannot be less than another $300,000,000. Germany now demands $1,000,000,000, and if France can borrow this at all, it will only be on such terms as must increase the capital of the obligation by one-half, and so make the indemnity actually reach the figure of $1,500,000,000. Suppose at the end of three or more, probably of six years, France should be able to pay this enormous bill, she will find herself in the possession of a national debt which reaches the alarming total of $4,700,000,000.

We think it extremely questionable whether the money markets of the world will take up, even by installments, the prodigious sum which the French negotiators propose to raise. The sensational offer which today's telegrams attribute to Baron ROTHSCHILD is in the last degree improbable. To financiers the question has three elements, each mutually affecting each other. The first relates to the probable stability of the government to be selected by the French people; the second, to the amount of the loan likely to be subscribed for by France herself; and the third, to the expansiveness of French taxation. Suppose a constitutional monarchy to be securely established in France, it is highly probable that the capitalists of the country would subscribe to the full measure of their ability for a share of the national burden. The Orleanists are in favor with the commercial and moneyed classes, and would, in the estimation of these sections of the people, and probably in that of Europe at large, be credited with a larger expectation of existence than any republic, however moderate. It must not, however, be forgotten that the comparative facility with which the Empire raised money arose from its success in drawing out the hoards of petty proprietors and tradesmen from the very unproductive places of deposit which still find favor with this class of Frenchmen. It is extremely doubtful whether either Orleanists or Republicans would have, for some time, at least, the same success, while the extent to which Prussian requisitions [illegible] quent upon the absence of artificial warmth at this season of the year. Such a condition of things had been impossible without the aid rendered by Congress to the coal companies. The law "protects" them, and the protection it confers enables the operators to grind the faces of the poor, to tax severely classes more fortunately situated, and to embarrass many important branches of industry. Public indignation, therefore, is divided between the monopolists and the legislation that gives to monopoly an essential element of its strength. Congress will act unwisely if it permit the session to end with the law imposing a prohibitory duty upon imported coal still upon the statute book.

The supporters of the monopoly remind us that the duty is upon bituminous coal, while Pennsylvania mainly produces anthracite. The inference we are asked to accept is, that between the tax and the present price of anthracite there is no connection. This special pleading one simple fact upsets. The coal tax was enacted at the bidding of the Pennsylvania monopolists, and they are today the chief opponents of its repeal. We presume that they know what they are about. They are not actuated by any special desire to benefit the Treasury, for, as we have remarked, the revenue derived from the tax is small indeed. They are not likely to exhibit a peculiar interest in the retention of a tax which entails upon themselves and the Republicans Party the odium of monopoly, for no other purpose than to punish the Nova Scotians. But one conceivable motive exists, and that is the motive which impels the same men to uphold excessive duties on other articles of prime necessity. The coal tax is a protective tax, or it is purposeless; and the class most clamorous for whatever protection it affords, is the class that is enriched by the present exorbitant price of anthracite coal. There is, then, a direct connection between the duty on bituminous coal and the anthracite monopoly, whatever the organs of the monopoly say to the contrary.

Nor is it difficult to trace the connection. If the Atlantic markets freely admitted Nova Scotia coal, its production would be stimulated, the supply would be constant and large, and the average price, compared with the average of Pennsylvania coal, would be very low. It could be profitably sold here at half the lowest price of anthracite, and at little more than quarter of the price now obtained for that article at the yards. For many reasons the anthracite is greatly superior; for some purposes, it will always be exclusively used. The cheapness of bituminous coal would, however, gradually commend it for various forms of domestic consumption, and its use for industrial purposes would soon be very large. Of this we may be confident: if Nova Scotia coal were now accessible here at four or four and a half dollars per ton, it would instantly exert a marked influence upon the price of anthracite, and the monopoly that has called forth the curses of thousands, would be impossible.

Whether the repeal of the duty would or would not be followed by all the benefits that are in some quarters expected from it, is a question which Congress is not required to consider. It is enough that the coal monopoly exists in good part by virtue of national legislation, and that until the duty is repealed, Congress must share with the monopolists the odium that is inseparable from the present state of the coal question.

Sale for Old Copper.

There is something almost sad in the statement that the original plates of that magnificent work, AUDUBON'S Birds of America, were recently sold in this City for their value as old copper, after having vainly sought a purchaser upon their artistic merits. But the new owners, who are well-known merchants, have agreed to wait a reasonable time for any proposition to redeem the plates from the destruction which otherwise awaits them.

There is a history belonging to these despised copper plates which alone ought to secure their careful preservation. The labors which preceded the publication of AUDUBON'S monumental work made up a record of patience, danger, hardship, perseverance, and devotion to Nature such as few books can boast of inspiring. Born of French parents in Louisiana, AUDUBON early showed a love for natural history, which was most aptly supplemented by a taste for drawing. This he came to be sent to France, where he became the pupil of the celebrated painter DAVID. Returning, at seventeen years of age, to America, he settled near Philadelphia, married, farmed, and traded by turns, with little success, but spent his leisure in laying the foundation of his great work by making drawings of all the birds he saw. But when he tried to sell these drawings, he found no one capable of appreciating, or willing to purchase, them. He then went to the West and alternated between prospecting and merchandising, but carefully kept in mind his great design as to a description of the birds of America. He became an enthusiastic adventurer, and with no companion and no assistance, explored the wilds of Western woods and prairies and river-bottoms in search of subjects for his pencil and his pen.

While absent from home on one of these expeditions, rats found their way into the box which held his drawings, and utterly destroyed what had cost poor AUDUBON years of toil and care. When he learned this, the blow came near killing him outright. But recovering from the sickness which this sorrow brought upon him, he started out again to do his work, and spent three whole years in replacing what the rats had destroyed. When he had prepared his drawings, and was ready to publish them to the world, he tried in vain to find a publisher. Few could appreciate them; those who did recognize their value had no money to risk, and some of the best American engravers said that the drawings could never be engraved. This was in Philadelphia; and New-York was not more kindly inclined, and, thus discouraged by his own country, he turned to England. In England he was welcomed at once. Referring to his reception there, (it was in 1826,) he says: "My drawings were publicly exhibited, and publicly praised. Joy swelled my heart. The first difficulty was surmounted. Honors which Philadelphia had refused, Liverpool freely accorded." Thus favored, his work rapidly progressed and was brought out in London in 1829. The engraving was done in an artistic manner by ROBERT HAVEL, Jr., and the work was issued in numbers, each containing five plates. By the end of 1832 eleven numbers had been published, the price being two guineas each. As was then the fashion, (and in this instance a necessity,) subscriptions had been taken for the work in advance of publication, and 174 copies were subscribed for by 172 persons. Among the names of patrons were those of GEORGE IV., CHARLES X., Queen ADELAIDE, LOUIS PHILIPPE, the Princess of ORLEANS, Prince MASSERA, Prince CHARLES L. BONAPARTE, HAYES CUVIER, EDWARD EVERETT, (for the Library of Congress,) Hon. T. H. PERKINS, (for the Boston Athenæum,) and Baron KRUDENER, the Russian Envoy. There were only four or five American subscribers, three of whom were Baltimoreans, and one, Miss DOUGLASS, a New-Yorker.

In 1834 the second volume was published, and when completed the work consisted of four volumes of plates and five of letter-press illustrations. In all, the book contained four hundred and sixty-five plates, which represented one thousand and sixty-five birds of the size of life, carefully drawn and beautifully colored. Successful at last, and grateful to those who had ministered to the cravings of his genius, AUDUBON accredited Britain with his success. "She has furnished," his preface says, "the artists through whom my labors were to be presented to the world; she has granted me the highest patronage and honors;—in a word, she has thus far supported the prosecution of my illustrations. To Britain, therefore, I shall ever be grateful."

The original work is large, costly, and now rarely purchasable. It is worth not far from $1,000. There are several copies in New-York, one of which belongs to the Mercantile Library, having been presented by some liberal friends of the institution several years ago. The plates, after various strange adventures—in one of which, in Spruce-street, some years ago, they narrowly escaped destruction by fire—have, as we have seen, sunk to that lowest level of human appreciation, the scrap-heap, and, unless some unlikely phase of public spirit developes itself, will soon be remanded into copper kettles or worse. Thus is true art admired and encouraged.

A New Feature of Modern "Social Freedom."

As one sign of what some people are pleased to call "progress," we may mention that a member of the English Parliament is said to be about to bring in a bill to legalize marriages for a limited period; and that Mr. MONCURE D. CONWAY, whose name, as an American, is well known in this country, has printed in London a book in which he argues that marriages should be terminable at any time. Marriage, according to this gentleman, is a relic of our hereditary monastic morality, "and also a grim idol about whom nearly all our social superstitions are entrenched with his blood-seeking altar." These and some other statements render Mr. CONWAY'S adoption of his main thesis more intelligible than it might otherwise be. It is clear that the iconoclasts are not confined to our own community; and that they are at least as outspoken and as eager for demolition in Europe as they are in some quarters of America.

These facts are mentioned only to show that the skeptical or critical spirit of the age is no longer exclusively manifested in particular communities, or in the presence of particular forms of government or religion. Mr. BUCKLE, with his passion for analogies and his plausible erudition, always found neat theories attributing all the phenomena of sociology to certain antecedent conditions of diet, faith, and laws. But the same tendencies respecting existing social institutions, the same class of efforts to destroy existing relations, with or without substituting others, are not developed, it is manifest, in the free atmosphere of republics alone. That literary humbug, Mr. HEPWORTH DIXON, tried to persuade the world that the marriage tie was breaking down generally in the United States. But the crazy theories to which he referred are peculiar to no nation or country, any more than fools are confined to one region of the globe. In the time of SHELLEY, (whom Mr. ROSSETTI praises for the ease with which he cast off his wife,) such a book as Mr. CONWAY'S would have been hailed with delight by the authors of Queen Mab and Don Juan; now it will probably be welcomed only by a few men like ROSSETTI, who appear to find most social restrictions a nuisance.

"Please Pay My Bill."

Some time ago the World endeavored to account for the hostility of the Times to the "Ring" by trumping up a foolish story about a bill due to us of some $13,000 from the City. According to the World—which never could understand people doing anything from conviction or principle—this unpaid bill was the sole cause of our opposition; just as if its friends, the Tweedites, would not gladly have paid a hundred such bills, if by so doing they could have silenced attack upon them. The World knew all this time that it was uttering that which was not true; but, no doubt, there was a lunatic here and there who credited its story—just as some people still believe that BAZAINE and McMAHON effected a junction of their forces, that the great "victory" at Saarbrück decided the war in favor of the French, and that the Tennessee was lost, with the most brilliant writer of two hemispheres in the doomed ship—all which facts have been set forth from time to time in the World. We now find that the World had confused our case with its own. It appears that it had a bill against the City which the City refused to pay, that it brought a suit to recover the money, and that the City still declined to pay on the ground that the World was [illegible] "requested to supply it to do the editorial work for." Perhaps the World thinks it deserved better treatment after all the dirt it swallowed in behalf of the Ring last Fall, but it wanted the money very badly, and consequently pressed hard for it. The City pleaded that there was no money to apply to plaintiff's claim—but still the World demanded its pound of flesh. The amount was $15,111 11, rather an important sum to the World. It thinks that even $13,000 is quite enough to buy a paper outright. At last the excellent Judge CARDOZO came to its relief, and ordered the City to pay the money. This, doubtless, relieved the managers from much anxiety. According to their own ideas about newspaper management, the World will now affect to be independent. People who are fools enough to believe that an ex-mail bill can decide the course of a great journal, will naturally anticipate great things from the World, now that its own "little account" is settled.

MINOR TOPICS.

If the frauds belonging to this City have been properly spent, why does not Controller CONNOLLY produce his report, in accordance with law? Mr. PETER COOPER and his friends certify that the management of the City is in good hands, and that TWEED, SWEENY, and CONNOLLY are thoroughly to be trusted. Then why are not the accounts of receipts and expenditure placed before the TAX-PAYERS? We say that twelve millions might easily have been saved last year, and would undoubtedly have been saved if honest men had stood at the head of affairs. We will prove it if CONNOLLY, alias "Slippery Dick," will give us access to his books. It is nonsense to call such a statement as this a "vague assertion." A "Ring" paper said yesterday that the people are "well satisfied with their municipal Government." They are not satisfied, but they are at present too supine to resist it. Let TWEED and SWEENY get their new TAX LEVY scheme into operation, and the most apathetic community in the world will at last be roused to indignation.

One or two adherents of the "Ring" assure us that eight hundred thousand dollars have not been paid for the furniture of each window—including sunshade, and bronze poles—in the new Court-house. They tell us that the sum was eight thousand dollars. Dear, dear—how very cheap! Well, if anybody will prove that we were wrong, by showing us a copy of the Controller's accounts, we will thank him and take it all back. But we must have a true copy of the Controller's accounts before doing that. We defy any of the Boheemians employed by the "Ring" to show us a transcript of the "Ring's" accounts. Eight thousand dollars a window even would be a pretty good price to pay—there is no need to exaggerate it. But how delighted the hired organs of the Ring will be to cackle over the egg which was put down in their path yesterday. What an opportunity there is for the World, to roll out a few Johnsonian periods, in its light and easy style, and dilate upon the "entrancedness of the human mind."

By an irregular but not ineffective method, the Senate has formally sanctioned the conclusion reached by the Judiciary Committee with reference to the controversy between the Secretary of the Treasury and the Pacific Railroad Companies. To give effect to the Committee's report, Mr. STEWART yesterday moved an amendment to the Army Appropriation bill, requiring the Secretary to pay the companies one-half of the compensation earned by them in the service of the Government,—in other words, limiting his demand upon the companies, on account of interest to one-half of the compensation due them for service, with five per cent. of their net earnings. In the debate which ensued, Messrs. THURMAN, STEWART, SHERMAN and others contended that the construction of the law by the Attorney-General is in direct violation of its terms and the terms of the contract entered into under it, and by adopting Mr. STEWART'S amendment, the Senate directly indorsed the claim put forward by the companies. It is to be hoped that the difference will now be considered ended.

If the appointment of M. POUYER QUERTIER as French Minister of Finance has any significance at all, it means that France has entered on a period of rigid protection. In the Corps Legislatif, and out of it, the manufacturer and banker, who has assumed what will be, after the conclusion of peace, the most important post in the Ministry, has been the foremost representative of protectionist doctrines, and the most bitter and persistent assailant of the reciprocity treaty with England. It only needed this appointment to make the Thiers Ministry one of the most incongruous coalitions of modern times. M. BUFFET, the young Minister of Public Instruction, is an enthusiastic free-trader as M. POUYER QUERTIER is a protectionist. Besides these, the Ministry contains an ex-Imperialist rear-admiral, a veteran Legitimist, Republicans of the new and old schools, and Orleanists of actual service and inherited attachment. The representative character of such a body is almost perfect—its administrative capabilities are of the most doubtful character. When the new Corps Legislatif takes up the functions of the National Assembly, we shall see a strife of parties in France which, in virulence, may probably exceed that of 1848.

The trumpery charges against the managers of the Children's Aid Society have been admitted, even by Senator NORTON, to be totally unfounded. Apart from the absurdity of allowing them to become the subject of a serious investigation at all, every friend of the truly useful and unsectarian charity must rejoice at the success with which a series of most unfounded accusations have been disposed of, and will accord to the Committee any credit it may justly claim for impartiality and candor. There is, however, work enough at Albany for committees of investigation, without seizing upon pretexts so frivolous as that afforded in the present instance.

As nearly as can be judged by existing indications, the territorial cession demanded by Germany amounts to three departments,—Moselle, Bas-Rhin and Haut-Rhin—excluding Belfort,—containing about two millions and a half of people, and yielding the National Exchequer of France about twelve millions of dollars per annum. Taking into account the advantages of commercial intercourse which will be lost to France by the transfer, together with the actual loss of revenue, the pecuniary sacrifice represented by the cession of these departments cannot be less than a capitalized sum of fifty millions of dollars. In other words—France agrees to pay Germany a pecuniary indemnity of one thousand millions, and a territorial indemnity of half that amount. In contracting debt with the northern states of Lorraine, Germany incorporated a population that contains some of the Teutonic elements that preserving the region of which Metz is the center. It is difficult to believe that with a strategic frontier which will overlook Lorraine, Prussia will not fall some pretext for acquiring possession of the Grand Duchy also. When France pays the last installment of the indemnity, she will have money enough to buy it outright—though it is more probable that she will resort to the cheaper method so successfully followed in the case of Schleswig-Holstein.

It appears that the British House of Lords will soon free itself from the society of Shakspeare Peers. Lord GRANVILLE has made a step in introducing a measure for that purpose, and it is stated, according to the London Times, that the House will sustain it. The old impurity, which has, with which a nobleman could appear in the witness-box, and bring ruin upon others, will be brought to an end. Such an abolition of an offensive privilege is another sign to add to the many that show how fast in England is becoming the march toward equal rights and equal responsibilities. There is certainly no intermediate reason why a Peer who has shown himself unfit to manage his own property should continue to have a share in managing that of the nation; and as an incentive to prudence on the part of men in high station, the proposed amendment commends itself as timely and judicious.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theatrical.

MISS GLYN'S READINGS.

Miss GLYN reads "King John," today, at the theatre of the Union League Club. The reading begins at 3 o'clock, and will be the last of the present series. Miss GLYN has her celebrity, in the part of Constance, and her delivery of that play has been by some pronounced her best effort. The opportunity is a good one for those who have not heard this artist to repair the omission. We trust, as this is Miss GLYN'S farewell appearance for the present, that she will be greeted with a numerous and appreciative audience.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.

Mr. WALLACK appears tonight in one of the best of his eccentric parts, that of the personal hero of "Woodcock's Little Game." We have lately pointed out some of the peculiar excellences of this performance, and now warmly recommend our readers to go and enjoy them. The entertainments begin with the exceedingly neat comedietta of "A Morning Call," in which Miss MADELINE HENRIQUES helps Mr. WALLACK to make one of the brightest bits, on a compact scale, of the season.

THE RUN ON "SARATOGA."

The prolonged success of "Saratoga" is fascinating one of the phenomenal events of dramatic history. Two or three times Mr. DALY has managed to withdraw the comedy, but so often it has obstinately refused to be withdrawn, and it is thronging the house now with more prodigious business than during the first week of its run. Mr. DALY has striven hard for success, and he has gained it, by thorough, and artistic work. The fact is creditable, both to him and to the public, and as such it is generally recognized.

Musical.

GERMAN OPERA AT THE STADT.

The smooth course of the drama at the Stadt Theatre was broken last evening by an operatic performance by Miss LOCHNER, Messrs. BOSSHARD, VIERLING, HAMELMANN, and FOSSNER, and the company which lately closed a successful season at that house. "The Harugaster" was sung in presence of an audience that filled the place. The fact that opera-giving at the Stadt is always profitable shows that a love for music, represented by a willingness to pay for it, is a good deal more general among the German population than among the many Fashionable persons who occasionally visited the Academy. Remarkable entertainments are not looked for, but good results are expected and are always supplied. The well-known artists whose names are mentioned above are masters of culture and experience, and the leading part is to be allotted to with emphatic commendation. Miss LOCHNER has a powerful voice, great skill as a singer, and an abundance of histrionic talent rarely possessed by prima donnas. She was a very fine Valentine, yesterday, and her share in the duet with Raoul, and in the duo with Raoul in the fourth act, called forth enthusiastic applause. The effect of the rendering suffered much from the hoarseness of Mr. BOSSHARD, (the Raoul) for which an apology was made. That the strength of the troupe was a little overtasked by MEYERBEER'S most elaborate work may be said, indeed, without disparagement to it, for the demands of the composition are exacting. Mr. FOSSNER was St. Bris, Mr. VIERLING, Nevers, Mr. FRANCRIN, Marcel, and Miss HAMELMANN, Urbain. The chorus, if not very strong, did its work with spirit and precision, and the sellers points of "The Huguenots," and particularly the scene of the benediction of the swords, were quite impressive. Friday night, Miss LOCHNER and her associates, are to perform again.

MR. HEWELL'S CONCERT.

The first concert of this well-known pianist and organist will take place at Steinway Hall on Thursday evening. As a pianist, Mr. HEWELL was a pupil of GOTTSCHALK, whose enchanting style he seeks to recall in composition and performance. He will have the artistic aid, tomorrow, of Mrs. FAXNHAM, soprano; Mr. BARTON PERKINS, tenor; Signor BARNOLDI, baritone; Mr. J. W. PIZZIGNI, violinist, and Mr. JOHNS A. MAGEE, pianist. The two last-named gentlemen are amateurs.

Nominations.

Connecticut Nominations for Congress.

JOHN W. STEDMAN, of Norwich, was yesterday nominated for Congress in the Democratic Convention for the Third District of Connecticut. This completes the nominations by both parties and the candidates are as follows:

Dist.	Republicans.	Democrats.	Candidates.
1.	Julius L. Strong.	Alfred L. Goodrich.
2.	Stephen W. Kellogg.	John Kendrick.
3.	H. H. Starkweather.	John W. Stedman.
4.	Geo. H. Coffing.	Wm. H. Barnum.

Messrs. STRONG, KELLOGG and STARKWEATHER, Republicans, and BARNUM, Democrat, comprise the present delegation, and they have all been renominated. Alderman PURDY is a working man's candidate in the Second District.

The vote of the several Congressional Districts two years ago was as follows:

Dist.	Republicans.	Democrats.	Majority.
1.	11,017	10,261	756 Rep.
2.	12,122	10,446	1,676 Rep.
3.	8,212	6,312	2,900 Rep.
4.	11,848	10,689	1,159 Dem.

The Hamilton Opera-House Drawing.

How it was Done.

The Cincinnati papers give full particulars of the drawing of the Hamilton Opera-house lottery. A boy thirteen years of age was selected to draw the tickets from the wheel, and the drawing proceeded with the following result, the first number drawing the first prize, the second number the second prize, &c.: 28,663, 11,623, 28,665, 40, 19,766, 6,628, 10,602, 19,128, 11,666, 28,664, 28,272, 28,220, 26,144, 24,676, 12,666, 28,174, 28,220, 10,616, 2,746, 12,663, 11,662, 514, 12,661, 27,171, 28,666, 27,662, 28,661, 10,664, 2,128, 21,662, 28,665, 16,660, 7,767, 6,611, 27,670, 12,663, 6,628, 2,766, 27,673, 28,666, 6,766, 24,661, 28,664, 28,670, 16,662, 11,660, 27,764, 10,626, 2,663, 4,622, 2,627, 12,664, 28,663, 28,760, 16,662, 28,276, 28,128, 21,660, 28,663, 2,764, 11,666, 16,662, 2,662, 28,627, 27,666, 24,664, 28,710, 28,666, 28,616, 16,762, 28,621, 12,664, 6,663, 16,661, 11,664.

No one claimed to hold a lucky number during the drawing, and it was not stated when or where the prizes would be distributed. The drawing was regarded with doubt and suspicion by a great many citizens of Hamilton, and many of the audience, while acknowledging that the drawing in the hall was done on the square, pronounced the whole scheme a swindle.

The Hamilton Opera-House and 200,000 Drawn by Unsold Tickets.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Feb. 28.—Dispatches from Hamilton, Ohio, state that both the Opera-house and the 200,000 prize were drawn by tickets unsold, although it is claimed that both were in the wheel; $5,000 were drawn by a German residing in Hamilton. Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio, each received $1,000.

WASHINGTON.

Reconsideration of the Sunday Civil Service Bill—Numerous New Editions Expected—Reorganization of the Navy—Report of the Duty on Coal—Selection of the Arkansas Democrats—Compensation to the Pacific Railroad.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Mr. DAWES discharged finally today on the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill. The House reconsidered the vote by which the bill was laid on the table, and then Mr. DAWES moved a substitute which left out all new buildings, except those already authorized by law. This was agreed to by 106 to 60, and the bill, thus passed, was laid aside. The bill, as first reported, appropriated $29,000,000, and, but the House has stricken out upward of thirteen, so that as finally passed the bill appropriates but $16,000,000.

ARRANGEMENTS ON THE MAIN HOUSE.

The Republican caucus for the nomination of officers to organize the next House will be held in the hall of the House on Thursday night. There is very little excitement over the prospect. Speaker BLAINE and Mr. Clerk McPHERSON and Mr. Doorkeeper BURNOS will probably be renominated by acclamation. There is no contest save on the offices of Sergeant-at-Arms and Postmaster. On the former the present incumbent, Col. M. G. GETWAY, who has given great satisfaction, has the inside track, and will probably keep it. His opponents are Col. STROBACH, present member from Tennessee, and Gen. HERRON, of Louisiana, neither of whom is the right man of man for the place. For Postmaster there are several candidates. W. H. KING, Esq., present incumbent, who is long-winded, and generally wins on the home-stretch; HENRY SHERWOOD, now assistant door-keeper, a fine, manly young soldier of the Fourth Michigan Cavalry; ALEX. H. JONES, a member from North Carolina, who goes out with this Congress, and wants an asylum, and a Mr. HAWKINS, of Ohio.

DUTIES TO HIGH OFFICIALS.

The members of the Joint High Commission dined with Sir EDWARD THORNTON last night. The members of both branches will be entertained at dinner by Mr. FISH, to-morrow night, and on Saturday night Earl DE GRAY will entertain his colleagues on both sides at his residence.

REPEAL OF THE DUTY ON COAL.

Right in the middle of the reading of the Kuklux bill, this afternoon, FERNANDO WOOD sprung a motion to suspend the rules and pass a joint resolution repealing the duty on coal. It took like wildfire. The yeas and nays were ordered, but the resolution passed by the enormous vote of 143 to 42—over three to one. The Pennsylvania and Maryland protectionists looked blank enough, but they went down under the immense majority. Senators say it will pass their body without doubt; and whether the price is reduced or not, the coal famine will have produced one good effect.

CINCINNATI AND SOUTHERN RAILROAD.

The Kentucky Legislature having persistently refused to charter the Cincinnati and Southern Railway, leading from Cincinnati through Kentucky and Tennessee to Knoxville, the matter came this time came before Congress, and today the House passed, under suspension of the rules, a bill chartering the road. The Kentucky members, and some of the warmpipers of States' Rights, opposed it seriously, but without avail. Many members voted for it to punish the Legislature, which has refused to charter the road because it is not tributary to Louisville. It will now hasten to do it in order to deprive Congress of the pleasure of completing its revenge.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The tongue of the House, today, when Gen. LOGAN made his motion for a Conference Committee on the Southern Pacific Railroad bill, indicates that it will to no easy matter to agree upon a report that will command the approval of the House, if the bill of the House, which was substituted for that of the Senate, is departed from in any material manner. At the same time it is doubtful whether the Senate conferees can be induced to accept the House bill. The House, however, has a decided advantage. By remaining firm on the ground assumed by Mr. WINDOM, Chairman of the Pacific Railroad Committee, it is in its power to compel the Senate to take its bill or nothing.

PROTECTION OF LIFE IN THE SOUTH.

Gen. BUTLER today reported his Kuklux bill, and asked for a suspension of the rules to make it the special order to take precedence of everything else except Appropriation bills and conference reports, but the House refused to suspend the rules, 117 to 68, only three votes lacking.

SALVATION ON THE ARKANSAS REPUBLICANS.

Gov. CLAYTON, of Arkansas, telegraphs here that in order to save the Republican Party in that State from disruption through the present troubles there, he has decided to resign his position as United States Senator elect.

THE M'GARRAHAN CLAIM.

An attempt was made this morning, in the Senate, to take up the resolution of the House on the McGarrahan claim. Mr. SAWYER moved to postpone the Army Appropriation bill for the purpose, and the yeas and nays were taken, resulting in a defeat of the motion to postpone by 21 to 19. The question will inevitably go over to vex the incoming Congress.

ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Army Appropriation bill was taken up in the Senate after the morning hour. The amendments offered by the Committee on Appropriations were few and of minor importance in the direct of economy, and they were soon disposed of.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD CLAIMS.

The remainder of the afternoon session was taken up in considering a proposition to direct the Secretary of the Treasury to pay over to the Pacific Railroad Company half of the transportation money retained in the Treasury, which Mr. STEWART offered as an amendment. Mr. BUCKALEW expressed the belief that the Secretary had acted in accordance with the law, and moved to lay the amendment on the table. The friends of the railroad voted this down by 28 to 19, which vote made it evident that the measure would be passed. The chief point of contention was a proviso offered by Mr. SHERMAN, which was intended to reserve the right of the Government, if it has any under existing law, to collect from the Company the interest on the bonds before the end of thirty years, when they mature, if meantime the Company becomes able to repay it. This was resisted by Mr. STEWART and some others, and failed by a majority of two. After the amendment offered by Mr. STEWART had been adopted, however, a proviso to secure the same end, but different in wording was put on the bill by a nine vote vote. The Senate seems inclined to help the Company as long as it needs help, but disinclined to give it more power than it has under the present law, to escape refunding the interest when it has reached a degree of prosperity warranting repayment.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has issued a circular stating that hereafter he will not assess to the holding, by an internal revenue officer, of any office of appointment under any State or municipal authority, or any other employment of such officer additional to his official duties, excepting so far as may be permitted to storekeepers under section 13 of the act of July 20, 1866.

CLAIMS OF SOUTHERNERS.

In the evening session of the Senate, as soon as the Army Appropriation bill came up, Mr. McDONALD offered an amendment extending the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to the cases of all loyal citizens in the Southern States. A motion promptly made to lay it on the table was voted down by 31 to 12. Accordingly, the entire evening, till 10 o'clock, was spent in reiterating the stereotyped reconstruction speeches, although, of course, no vote was expected to be changed by them. All attempts of the Committee on Appropriations to secure a vote without delay were fruitless. Notwithstanding the apparent impossibility of getting through the Appropriation bills this session, and also acting on other propositions, amendments entirely irrelevant to appropriations keep pouring down on the Senate in showers. Almost a third of the Senate is away, and the Democratic friends of the measure, in union with the Democratic Senators, small majority, and will still continue to embarrass much of their adversaries. The Senate is trying to have the Army bill passed of all to-morrow, and there can be no certainty of the result.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

BILLS SIGNED BY SECRETARY.

The President today approved and signed an act to amend an act passed May 18, 1870, entitled "An act to enforce the rights of citizens of the United States to vote in the several States of the Union and for other purposes;" also, a joint resolution to extend the benefit of the act establishing the National Asylum for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers to disabled soldiers and sailors of the War of 1812 and of the Mexican War.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

There were on the Speaker's table, today, 150 bills and joint resolutions from the Senate. The House has passed all of its General Appropriation bills, six of which await the action of the Senate, namely, the Army, Navy, Fortifications, Omnibus, Deficiency and River and Harbor Appropriation bills.

A TEXAS RAILROAD CASE.

In the case of CARPENTER vs. The Texas and New-Orleans Railroad Company, MOSES, and others, Mr. Justice BRADLEY, in Chambers yesterday, reviewed the law and the evidence and refused to dissolve the injunction. The opinion virtually establishes that the bonds of last have a priority over the bonds of 1870, as to the forty miles of railroad between Liberty and Houston. The seventy miles between Orange and Liberty will be sold separately. The equities, as to the forty miles between Liberty and Houston, and as to the land certificate, will be adjusted before there is any sale as to them. PASHALY and HEMPHILL for complainants; HALE and EVARTS for MORAY.

ARRIVAL OF JUDGE HOAR.

Judge HOAR, of the Joint High Commission, arrived here to-night.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.

The following comparative statement shows the internal revenue receipts for the first eight months of the years 1870 and 1871:

NOMINATIONS.

The President sent to the Senate today the following nominations:

John M. Miller, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the First District of Tennessee; Jas. R. Hotchkiss, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth District of Ohio; Jas. E. Marsh, Surveyor of Customs at Kansas City, Mo.

Postmasters—Ambrose R. Gilmore, at Delhaven, Mass.; R. Kent Lee, at Lee's Corner, Mass.; Lewis Gravesteck, at Rock Island, Ill.; Albert Bowers, at Shelburne Falls, Mass.; C. S. Coburn, at Lancaster, Mass.; Jos. F. Hodges, at Fairhaven, Mass.; R. R. Bowen, Williamsburg, Mass.; Mrs. Maradon E. Lane, at Xenia, Ohio; Jas. F. Rodgers, at Mount Pleasant, Iowa; Bernard Hewell, at Trenton, N. J.; Henry A. Greene, at Long Branch City, N. J.; David A. Allen, at Strawhan, Texas; Smith E. Young, at Kosse, Texas; Oliver C. Ellsworth, at Havana, Ill.

CONFIRMATIONS.

Henry D. Cooke, of Georgetown, D. C., to be Governor of the District of Columbia; Jerome B. Brigham, to be Collector of Internal Revenue at Milwaukee; E. Woodward, Collector of Customs at Kansas City; Robert W. Healey, United States Marshal of the Southern District of Alabama; James H. Cogswell, Postmaster at Providence, R. I.; Henry Bull, Postmaster at Rhode Island; Israel Howell, Postmaster at Trenton, N. J.; George L. Andrews, of Massachusetts, to be Professor of the French language at the Military Academy.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

THIRD SESSION.

SENATE—WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Feb. 28.

CREDENTIALS.

The Vice-President laid before the Senate the credentials of JOHN A. LOGAN as Senator from the State of Illinois for six years from March 4. The credentials of PHILEMON T. HERNDON, as Senator from Nebraska for the ensuing term, were presented by Mr. TIPTON, read, and ordered to be filed.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEES.

The Vice-President announced the appointment of the following Committees of Conference on the Civil Appropriation bill, Messrs. COLE, HARLAN, and STOCKTON; on the Legislative Appropriation bill, Messrs. SAWYER, TRUMBULL, and BAYARD.

RIVER AND HARBOR APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. CHANDLER, of Michigan, from the Committee on Commerce, reported, with amendments, the River and Harbor Appropriation bill.

DUPLICATION OF REGISTERED BONDS.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, called up the House bill to authorize the duplication of registered bonds in certain cases. Passed.

A large number of Pension bills were passed.

PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Mr. CONKLING, of New-York, called up the bill to prevent cruelty to animals while in transit by railroad or other means of transportation, within the United States. He said Mr. Bergh, of the New-York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, desired a more stringent measure, but deferred to the opinions of the friends of the bill.

Mr. HAMILTON, of Maryland, said that while he was in favor of all humanitarian projects, he knew that these were too often made to further private interests. He made objection to the bill on the ground that it involved an arbitrary and unauthorized stretch of power on the part of the Federal Government.

Mr. TIPTON, of Nebraska, thought the matter should be left to State legislation and to regulations of private parties interested in the transfer and raising of stock.

Mr. BAYARD, of Delaware, suggested an amendment, which created general merriment, making it unlawful, under penalties of fine and imprisonment, to confine chickens or fowls in any house or other place of confinement for a longer period than twenty-eight consecutive hours.

Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky, thought the amendment, for all practicable purposes, about as sensible as the original proposition.

Upon the expiration of the morning hour, Mr. CONKLING made an unsuccessful effort to reach a vote upon the bill.

Mr. DAVIS announced that if proceeded with, the bill would be debated at length.

ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Army Appropriation bill then came up as the unfinished business, when Mr. SAWYER, of South Carolina, moved its postponement in order to take up the House bill relating to the Panoche land grant, or McGarrahan claim. It was agreed to, yeas 21, nays 19.

The Army Appropriation bill was then proceeded with, and the amendments reported from the Committee on Appropriations adopted. The only one of importance was one reducing the appropriation for the line officers' quarters of military store-houses, and for repairing public buildings at established posts from $1,000,000 to $750,000.

A number of amendments to the bill were laid on the table, including one by Mr. SAULSBURY, of Delaware, prohibiting the use of any of the money appropriated by the bill to pay the expenses of the transportation of any officer or soldier to or from a place of election.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported and advocated an amendment appropriating $200,000 for making and testing a sea-coast rifle-gun upon a plan recommended by a Board of Army Officers and approved by the Chief of Ordnance and Secretary of War. Tabled.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, offered an amendment reciting the meaning of the fifth section of the act of July 3, 1864, and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay over to the Pacific Railroad Company one-half of all the compensation for services which have been or shall be rendered by either of said Pacific Railroad Companies to the United States. Mr. STEWART had reported as amendment from the Judiciary Committee by their direction.

Mr. EDMUNDS, of Vermont, a member of the Judiciary Committee, denied that the Committee had ever considered the amendment, and appealed to Mr. TRUMBULL, of Illinois, Chairman of the Committee, to be informed of the statement. He said that the Senator from Nevada (Mr. STEWART) had called his attention to the subject on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. STEWART remarked that he had personally obtained the assent of a majority of the Committee to the offering of the amendment.

After further discussion, Mr. EDMUNDS moved to lay the amendment on the table, which was not agreed to—yeas 19, nays 28.

The amendment was then discussed, Mr. EDMUNDS opposing it as involving the surrender of a right which seemed to him to exist in the statute of 1864.

The liability of the companies to pay over the [illegible] railroad companies, were discussed by Messrs. STEWART, of Nevada, BAYARD, of Delaware, CHANDLER, of Michigan, SHERMAN, of Ohio, TRUMBULL, of Illinois, and others, when Mr. SHERMAN offered an amendment to secure to the Government the right to press its claim against results whenever their discussion should warrant it.

The amendment was to add the following:

"But nothing contained in this section shall be held to affect, alter, or in any manner impair or enlarge the rights of the United States to recovery by such railroads of the moneys now by law required to be paid to the United States on account of said railroads."

Mr. STEWART said he did not think the amendment was in the right place. He would [illegible] the amendment to the bill, and moved to lay it on the table. Agreed to—yeas 29, nays 11.

The question was then taken on the amendment of Mr. SHERMAN, and it was agreed to—yeas 27, nays 12.

The amendment was then added to the section, and the section as amended was agreed to.

The amendment was to add the following:

"But nothing contained in this section shall be held to affect, alter, or in any manner impair or enlarge the rights of the United States to recovery by such railroads of the moneys now by law required to be paid to the United States on account of said railroads."

Mr. STEWART said he did not think the amendment was in the right place. He would [illegible] the amendment to the bill, and moved to lay it on the table. Agreed to—yeas 29, nays 11.

The question was then taken on the amendment of Mr. SHERMAN, and it was agreed to—yeas 27, nays 12.

The amendment was then added to the section, and the section as amended was agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. SHERMAN, a proviso was attached that nothing herein contained shall be held to determine the legal rights of the several parties, or give construction to the statutes aforesaid, all of whom are to be left for future adjudication.

Mr. SCOTT, of Pennsylvania, moved an amendment appropriating $50,000 for national homes for soldiers and sailors' orphans at Gettysburg, Penn. Not agreed to.

At 5 o'clock, after a short Executive Session, the Senate took a recess till evening.

EVENING SESSION.

Mr. CHANDLER, of Michigan, called up a bill to enable the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Company to change the northern terminus of its road from Traverse Bay to the straits of Mackinaw. Passed.

ARMY APPROPRIATIONS—SOUTHERN CLAIMS.

The Army Appropriation bill was proceeded with.

Mr. McDONALD, of Arkansas, offered an amendment to extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to all claims of loyal citizens arising in the insurrectionary States, and repealing all discrimination between such claimants because of their residence in said Court.

A motion to lay it on the table was voted down—yeas 10, nays 31.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, expressed his surprise that such a proposition should be seriously urged. It would double the Treasury by sending upon the country all the claims submitted by the Unionists during the war, and would repeal the very laws of war by abolishing distinctions between the rebellious States and those which supported the Government.

Mr. BLAIR, of Missouri, held that discrimination as to loyalty should be in favor instead of against those who had suffered much, both in their losses and sufferings on account of their Union sentiments. They had hazarded their lives and sacrificed their property for the Union, while loyal claimants from the North now in that Court were secure and unscathed.

Mr. SAWYER, of South Carolina, thought it would be better for the Government to recognize these claims, even though they took a thousand millions from the Treasury, rather than incur the disgrace which a refusal to entertain honest claims of loyal Southerners would inflict.

Messrs. STEWART of Nevada, EDMUNDS of Vermont, WILSON of Massachusetts, and CONKLING of New-York, in opposition to the amendment, argued that any such legislation required to be against those who had been traitors and disloyal claimants, and that the amendment was not germane to the bill.

After discussion a motion to table the amendment was rejected—yeas 27, nays 29; and a motion to lay the whole bill on the table, in order to proceed with other business, was also lost—yeas 26, nays 30.

The Democrats and Southern Senators voted solidly together.

Mr. RICE, of Arkansas, asserted that the friends of the proposition would stand by it until a decisive vote upon it could be had.

Mr. CONKLING, of New-York, then addressed the Senate against the amendment, and after further discussion it was arranged that a vote would be taken on the McDonald amendment to-morrow at 12 o'clock noon. At 11¼ o'clock P. M. then the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE.

Mr. DYER, of Missouri, from the Committee of Conference, on the bill to authorize the construction of a bridge over the Mississippi River at St. Louis, Mo., and over the Missouri River at Glasgow, Mo., made a report, which was agreed to.

The Speaker appointed Messrs. BARGETT, BECK, and CLARKE of Kansas as the Conference Committee on the Indian Appropriation bill; and Messrs. DAWES, of Massachusetts, for Wisconsin, and NIBLACK as the Conference Committee on the Legislative Appropriation bill.

A Committee of Conference was ordered on the Postal Appropriation bill.

Mr. LOGAN, of Illinois, from the Committee on the Naval Appropriation Bill, reported that the Committee had been unable to agree, and moved the appointment of a new Committee. Agreed to.

BILLS PASSED.

The Senate bill authorizing the use of the balance of appropriations under the control of the Library Committee was taken up and passed.

Mr. KUNDER, of Ohio, from the Committee on Printing, reported a joint resolution for the printing of 346,000 extra copies of the Agricultural Report for 1869, omitting the provision for an edition in German, so as not to endanger the passage of the joint resolution.

On motion of Mr. PETERS, of Maine, the Senate amendment to the House bill to restore ROBERT BOYD, Jr., to the active list of the navy as Commander was concurred in.

Mr. MAYNARD, of Tennessee, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported a bill to amend section four of the act of July 20, 1868, in relation to fermented liquors, so as not to apply to the making of fermented liquids used for the manufacture of vinegar exclusively, but not to be construed to authorize the distillation of fermented liquors by where except in authorized distilleries.

On motion of Mr. MORRILL, of Pennsylvania, the Senate amendment to the House bill for an international exposition at Philadelphia in 1876, was concurred in, and the bill passed.

On motion of Mr. PETERS, the Senate amendment to the House bill allowing the issue of duplicate registered bonds in cases where the original bonds have been lost or destroyed, was concurred in, and the bill passed.

On motion of Mr. ARNELL, the Senate bill, passed in April, 1870, for giving effect to the various grants of public lands to the States of Nevada, and allowing the selection of school lands in California, was passed.

THE CENSUS APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. DAWES, of Massachusetts, called up his motion to reconsider the vote whereby the Census bill was tabled yesterday. He remarked that yesterday was an instructive day. He thought that all of them had learned something yesterday, and that the officials who recommended the appropriations in the bill had also learned something. Those officials who had felt disposed to make the Committee on Appropriations occupy the position of obstructionists in regard to public works, had had their day yesterday. They had no occasion to complain that the Committee had not represented their views fairly to the House. The House had accepted those views with wonderful unanimity. The vote on Saturday was cast against the ineffectual efforts of the Committee to stay the commencement of public works, it had seemed to the Committee that any further opposition would be unavailing. By a two-thirds vote yesterday, every new public work asked for was by the House inserted in the bill, and after doing so the House had shrunk from its own work and strangled its own offspring. [Laughter.] He had moved a reconsideration for the purpose of giving the House an opportunity to retrace its steps and to undo the work which it had done yesterday. He had no argument to make, no new position to assume, nothing to qualify. He had been at all times opposed; in the present position of the public treasury, and at the present time, to the commencement of any public works which the public necessities did not demand. He proposed now, if the House reconsidered the vote, to move a substitute for the bill, omitting all the appropriations for new buildings, except as to the League Island Navy-yard, and that exception he would include through the bill to that proposition, but on account of the hasty action of the House on Saturday given in favor of it.

Mr. MAYNARD, of New-York, remarked that that vote was no more decisive than the vote on the Albany Post-office.

Mr. HOLMAN, of Indiana, moved to lay the motion to reconsider on the table. Negatived—84 to 159.

The vote was then reconsidered, and the motion to lay the bill on the table was rejected.

Mr. DAWES then moved as a substitute the original bill, with all the appropriations for new works omitted, with the exception of the League Island Navy-yard.

Mr. AMBLER, of Ohio, moved to strike out the item of $200,000 for League Island.

Mr. COBURN, of Indiana, protested against the sudden fit of economy which appeared to have seized members in relation to new public works, the aggregate expense of which was shown by the substitute to be only $3,000,000, while the House was voting $2,000,000 for the Boston Post-office and $6,000,000 for the New-York Post-office.

The substitute omits the following items:

To pay the State of Massachusetts for coast defence; several items for Washington Aqueduct; six million to indemnify States for war expenses; $600,000 to pay for Marine Hospital and other property in the military service of the United States; for new Government buildings at Trenton, N. J.; St. Louis, Mo.; San Francisco Appraiser's store; Washington printing office for Treasury Department; Harrisburg, Penn.; Albany, N. Y.; Nashville, Tenn.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Port Huron, Mich.; La Crosse, Wis.; Quincy, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; San Francisco Hospital; an Angel Island quarantine station; Helena, Montana; Montgomery, Ala.; Little Rock, Ark.; Pulaski, Tenn., and all that were inserted by way of amendments to the bill.

It contains the following amendments adopted by the House:

Appropriation of $60,000 for Little Falls Bridge; increasing the compensation of VINNIE REAM from $1,000 to $1,500; providing for the survey of the Western Coast from San Diego to San Luis Obispo; authorizing the sale of the Navy-yard at Sackett's Harbor; and the appropriation for the New-York Post-Office.

The question was first taken on Mr. AMBLER's motion to strike out the appropriation for Angle Island Navy-yard.

The appropriation was not struck out—yeas 8, nays 98.

The substitute was then agreed to—yeas 88, nays 66.

The bill was then passed—yeas 113, nays 38.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. LOGAN, of Illinois, moved that the rules be suspended, and that the House agree to the Southern Pacific Railroad bill.

Mr. RANDALL, of Pennsylvania, preferred that the House should insist on its amendments to the bill, by which the Senate land grant of 20,000,000 of acres was reduced to 12,000,000.

Mr. LOGAN said that he had much preferred the House bill to the Senate bill, and had no doubt but that it was certainly an act of courtesy on the part of the House to agree to the conference asked by the Senate.

Mr. RANDALL—Does the gentleman think that it is an act of courtesy on our part to give away an additional 12,000,000 of acres of the public lands?

Mr. LOGAN—That is not the question. The only question is whether the House will accede to a Conference. My own opinion is that that is the only way that the bill can be got through at this session. I think that the Senate is perhaps as fair in the opinion as the House is in its own, and that there should be some kind of a conference between the two Houses. My own notion is that it is better for those interested in the bill, and who desire its passage, to have a Committee of Conference than to make any other position at this time.

Mr. BANKS, of Massachusetts, said there would be no objection to the course proposed by Mr. RANDALL, if there were time to carry it into effect; but there was not time to get a report from the Senate on the question of its receding from its disagreement to the House amendments.

Mr. RANDALL—It will not take more than ten minutes—just as long as it will take the Clerk to walk over to the Senate Chamber.

Mr. BANKS—But the Senate would have to act on it.

Mr. RANDALL—Let us make a struggle to keep the land grant down to thirteen million, instead of twenty-six millions.

Mr. BANKS—We have entire control of the question. I understand, as the gentleman does, that the House is not disposed to take the Senate bill. The Committee of Conference will be governed by the views of the House, and the House will have the power to reject the action of the Committee. For myself, I feel free to say that there is no expectation whatever that the Senate bill will be passed by the House.

Mr. RANDALL—I prefer to keep the bill where it will require a two-thirds vote to get at it.

Mr. BANKS—That is, to defeat the bill.

Mr. MAYNARD, of Tennessee—Perhaps the gentleman would prefer to keep the bill out altogether.

Mr. RANDALL—I do; but I know that its passage is inevitable, and I prefer it to pass in the shape of a grant of thirteen million acres, rather than of twenty-six millions. My object is to keep the House bill as it is.

The vote was taken and the rules were suspended and a Conference Committee ordered—yeas 136, nays 59.

CINCINNATI AND SOUTHERN RAILROAD.

Mr. INGERSOLL, of Illinois, asked leave to make a statement, to be followed by a motion to suspend the rules and pass a bill to promote the construction of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad.

Mr. WHITTEMORE, of Kentucky, objected.

Mr. INGERSOLL offered to allow Mr. WHITTEMORE five minutes to reply to his statements, for which he asked only five minutes.

Mr. WHITTEMORE—I do not want five minutes. I object.

Mr. INGERSOLL—Very well; I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill; the gentleman knows it is; there is no land grant in it. It simply gives the right to citizens of Kentucky to build a road across the State of Kentucky.

Mr. BECK, of Kentucky—That is not the fact.

Mr. INGERSOLL—Every county in the State of Kentucky through which the road passes asks that this proposition be made. I have always been of the opinion that the Union, south and north of Kentucky, wants the right to pass through that State, and she refuses that right.

The bill was read in full and then the rules were suspended and the bill passed—yeas 131, nays 42.

NO WAY TO DO BUSINESS.

Mr. SARGENT, of California, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the House proceed to the business on the Speaker's table, debate to be confined to speeches of five minutes, and that at the end of the second speech the previous question be not accounted, the pending bill shall be laid aside.

Mr. KELLEY, of Pennsylvania, offered the following as a substitute:

Resolved, That at 12 o'clock tomorrow the House will proceed to the business on the Speaker's table, under the following restrictions: As each bill is reached, a debate of five minutes, pro and con, will be allowed, and also one amendment. If the House shall then refuse to second the previous question, the bill shall be laid aside, retaining its place on the Speaker's table, and no dilatory motion of any kind shall be entertained, nor shall a motion to adjourn be in order before 4½ o'clock P. M.

Mr. SARGENT accepted Mr. KELLEY's resolution as a substitute for his own.

Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, said that that was no way to do business. They might as well propose to pass by one vote all the bills on the Speaker's table.

The substitute was rejected, there being only forty-eight votes in its favor.

PROTECTION OF LOYAL CITIZENS.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, from the Reconstruction Committee reported the bill to protect citizens of the United States in all parts of the United States in the full enjoyment of their rights of personal liberty and prosperity, and to enable such citizens to preserve and perpetuate the evidences of losses claimed to have been sustained by them in the war in the States lately in rebellion.

Mr. COX, of New-York, moved that the bill be rejected. Negatived.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, moved to suspend the rules, and that the House proceed to the consideration of the bill to protect loyal and peaceable citizens of the United States, and that the further reading of the bill be proceeded with to the exclusion of all other business except appropriation bills and conference reports until finally disposed of. Negatived—yeas 127, nays 65; not two-thirds in the affirmative.

Three Republicans voted in the negative—Messrs. FARNSWORTH, FITCH, and WILKINSON. A change of one of these votes would have given the requisite two-thirds majority.

REPEAL OF DUTIES ON COAL.

While the foregoing bill was being read, Mr. WOOD, of New-York, took the floor, and moved that the rules be suspended, and the bill passed repealing all laws and parts of laws imposing duty on foreign coal, the bill to take effect immediately.

The rules were suspended and the bill passed—yeas 144, nays 45, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Adams, Allison, Ames, Atwood, Axtell, Bailey, Banks, Barnum, Barry, Beaman, Beatty, Beck, Bennett, Boutelle, Bromberg, Brooks, Buckley, Burchard, Burdett, Burleigh, Butler, Cake, Cake, Cake, Clerk of Tennessee, Clarke of Kansas, Cobb of Kansas, Coburn, Comer, Conner, Cook, Corker, Cox, Crutchfield, Dawes, Dawson, Dickinson, Dixon, Dockery, Dox, Duke, Eldridge, Eldridge, Ela, Farnsworth, Ferry, Fitch, Garfield, Griswold, Haight, Halderman, Hale, Hamilton of Florida, Harper, Hay, Hays, Hellitt, Hill, Hoar, Hoge, Holman, Hunter, Ingersoll, Jones, Judd, Kelley, Kellogg of Connecticut, Kerr, Kershner, Kinney, Lafin, Lash, Lawrence, Lewis, Logan, Long, Lynch, Maynard, Marshall, Maynard, McCormick, McCrary, McNeely, Morrill of Illinois, Morgan, Morrill of Maine, Mungen, Niblack, Orth, Packard of Indiana, Paine, Palmer, Peck, Pettibone, Poland, Price, Rainey, Ransier, Rice, Sargent, Schumaker, Shanks, Sheldon of Louisiana, Shellabarger, Sherwood, Shober of Georgia, Smith of Ohio, Smith of Oregon, Smith of Vermont, Starkweather, Stevens, Stevenson, Stone, Stoughton, Strong, Sypher, Tabb, Taylor, Tremain, Twichell, Tyner, Upson, Van Aken, Van Horn of New-York, Wallace of Wisconsin, Washburn of Massachusetts, Walker, Wells, Whitely, Willard, Williams, Wilson, Winchester, Wolf, Wood, Young—144.

NAYS—Messrs. Ambler, Archer, Armstrong, Ayer, Blair, Bolen, Booker, Bonnett, Coburn, Cobb of North Carolina, Dickey, Donley, Duval, Gove, Gilfillan, Hambleton of Maryland, Herndl, Kelley of Pennsylvania, Maynard, McCrary, McIver, McKenzie, Morrow, Morris of New-Jersey, Morphis, Morrell of Pennsylvania, Myers, Neiley, O'Neill, Packer of Pennsylvania, Phelps, Platt, Porter, Prosser, Randall, Rusted, Smith of Tennessee, Stiles, Stokes, Strickland, Swann, Taylor, Tillman, Townsend, Wallace, Wilson of Ohio—45.

EXPEDITING BUSINESS.

The Speaker insisted that instead of imposing on him the responsibility of nominating gentlemen members who desire the floor to move to suspend the rules and take certain bills from the Speaker's table, the House should go to the Speaker's table and go through with the bills on it, passing those to which there is no objection, and allowing motions to suspend the rules for the passage of such bills as are objected to. He would only do so by unanimous consent.

Unanimous consent was given, and the Speaker announced that he would commence at 12 o'clock to-morrow, and that the calendar should first be gone through with, so as to pass all bills not objected to.

REFORMING BAD HABITS.

On motion of Mr. TWITCHELL, of Massachusetts, an additional rule was adopted prohibiting smoking in the hall or galleries, the Speaker having stated that there was no such rule now existing.

The House then at 5¼ adjourned.

OBITUARY.

Wm. A. Budd.

Mr. WM. A. THE MIDDLE-MEN'S COUNCIL.

The middle-men met in council, yesterday, in Trinity Building. The proceedings were quite informal, and related principally to their private transactions. The effect of the expected action of Congress, removing the duty of foreign coal, was a topic considerably discussed. The impression was given over to the committees in charge of the miners are said to be on the very verge of starvation, and are [illegible] to rebel against the [illegible] of the Union, so they are to condemn [illegible] oppression, the mining companies [illegible] that these measures are now in progress [illegible] green men at work unless the miners [illegible] operations at the offered terms. BASE-BALL SHORT-HITS.

Approaching Inauguration of the Season—The Base-Ball Commission of Marshs.

It will be but a few weeks hence when the ball-fields of the Metropolis will again become the scene of the inaugural contests of the baseball season, and the promise is that we are to have the most exciting games of skill on record as all the principal clubs of the Union, before the present month expires, we shall no doubt have recorded the first match of the season, unless the weather should prove unusually unpropitious. During 1869, the first game played occurred March 11, and for several seasons upwards of a dozen have been played on the hard, gravelly field of the old Star Grounds, located in the ward of Carroll Park, South Brooklyn, on March 1. Indeed, a Brooklyn paper announces that a match is to be played there next Saturday afternoon, if the weather is mild enough.

Among the interesting occurrences in base-ball world are to take place this month may be named the convention of delegates from the professional clubs of the country, which is announced to assemble in the City of Washington this month. This convention originated from a call of the Secretary of the Olympic Club of Washington, who desired that the delegates of the principal professional clubs should meet at New-York on the day named, to arrange the date of their matches for the entire season, to adopt the Chicago Proposition, if it was the decided sentiment of the Chicago Club; that the matter of agents for the ensuing season, and other questions affecting the interests of the professional class, and this meeting with general favor, the third proposition was made, viz., to form the meeting into a Convention of the Professional Clubs, and this is likely to be the result of the gathering. At present, there is no authority conferred upon any governing championship contests, and a code is greatly needed. Moreover, it is desirable that some arrangement be made by which the disputes over the selection of umpires may be avoided. The discussion of these and other interesting questions will make the Convention quite an important one. It is to be hoped that it will not culminate in such a farce as the Convention of November last.

Another event of equal interest, but to another class of the fraternity, is the Convention of delegates from the amateur clubs of the country, which is to be held at the Excelsior Club House, in Brooklyn, on the 16th of March. The objects in view in calling this Convention are to organize a national association, composed entirely of amateur clubs, viz.: Of clubs which engage in the game for recreative exercise only, and not for a money reward; to arrange for pecuniary benefit to city; and also to arrange a code of playing rules to govern amateur clubs only, in which all countenancing of playing base-ball for money shall be repudiated. The initiatory movement was made by the Excelsior Club of Brooklyn, and it is indorsed and aided by the leading gentlemen of the City, these two Clubs possessing the highest social standing of any clubs in the country, besides being among the oldest and wealthiest. It will be seen, therefore, that the present month is pregnant with events of deep interest and importance to the fraternity at large.

THE PROFESSIONAL NINES OF 1871.

Though all the professional clubs of the country have not as yet completed the organization of their nines, the majority have, and for the information of our readers we give the names and positions of the players of the Clubs which have completed their rosters for 1871:

The Forest City Club of Cleveland, having lost Hubbell, have to get one in place of him. The City Club of Rockford, have to raise a new nine. The Keokuqens, of Fort Wayne, have but five men as yet, and the Eckfords and Atlantics are yet in an unorganized condition. By the close of March, however, no doubt all will be ready.

WAITING FOR DEATH.

The Murderer Thomas—His Condition—The Coming Execution.

JOHN THOMAS, the colored man who is under sentence of death for the murder of WILLIAM JOHNSON, another colored man, was officially informed yesterday that the Supreme Court had decided adversely to the petition of his counsel demanding a new trial. It will be remembered that THOMAS was on his conviction sentenced to be hanged on the 17th ult., but his counsel, Mr. GOODLEY, succeeded in procuring a respite of three weeks from Gov. HOFFMAN, in order that he might argue certain points of law before the Supreme Court in support of his motion for a new trial. As the new trial has been denied, the condemned will be executed on the 30th inst.

The prisoner had conducted himself in a cool and collected manner ever since his conviction, and prior to the respite granted by the Governor he seemed to have no hope of escape from the gallows. He has however, had time to be excited by the chance given him by counsel, or that the adverse decision has materially acted in a depressing manner on his spirits. THOMAS yesterday seemed to be stunned by his fate, though he expressed himself resigned to the will of God. He does not seem desirous of visitors, and has retained his former colloquial habits, so that these anxious to derive a very amusing of interest from him usually fall in their efforts. THOMAS, mother having been a Roman Catholic, her son has received the good offices of the priests of that church, two of whom frequently visit him in his cell. The Sisters of Mercy also aid in the good work of preparing a human soul for eternity, and the condemned man follows their words in a child-like manner, that contrasts strangely with the ferocity of his crime.

Warden SYLCOM will have custody of the condemned until morrow night, when the Sheriff's deputies will assume charge of the prisoner's person and retain it until the execution of the law has been carried into effect. Hereafter no persons will be permitted to see THOMAS except when he expresses a desire to see them.

The Custom-House General Order Business.

It will be seen by the following extract from the Warehouse act of Aug. 6, 1846, that the Secretary of the Treasury is permitted to order the restoration of the general order business to the Cunard, Hamburg and Bremen Companies. The law expressly gives to the Collector the authority to designate general-order stores, and he may add to or extend the number of those warehouses at pleasure. The section is as follows:

"Provided that in all cases of failure or refusal by the owner within the period allowed by law to the importer to make entry of imported merchandise, or, if entered, to pay the duties thereon, or to make such disposition of the same as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, the said goods, or such part thereof as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, shall be deemed to be forfeited to the United States, and shall be taken possession of by the Collector, and delivered to the public stores, or to other stores to be designated by the Collector, at third revenue district of the port, and the importer, owner or consignee shall have no further right to claim the same, or any part thereof, or to be entitled to the benefit of any act of Congress, or of the Treasury, or of the Collector, or of any other officer of the Treasury, or of any other officer of the United States, to be exercised in the manner provided for by the act of April 20, 1818, &c."

The owners of the stores, the agents of the various lines, have heretofore refused to permit their stores to be bonded or used as general stores, and until they do the Collector will doubtless refuse to restore the general order business as asked, unless the Secretary peremptorily directs him to be done, which it is not probable he will do, and if he should, his action would relieve the Collector from the obligations of his official bond.

Criminals Before Judge Woodruff.

The criminal proceedings at the United States Circuit Court, before Judge WOODRUFF, yesterday, included two trials and one conviction by plea. Three sailors named Peter JOHNSON, CHARLES PETERSON and CHARLES THOMSON, were arraigned on a charge of creating a revolt on board of the ship Shenandoah, off Governor's Island, on the 5th of December. The testimony showed that the vessel was about sailing at the time of the disturbance, and that the seamen became intoxicated and disorderly. Considerable excitement during which one of the crew named SMITH was cut down and killed with a cutlass in the hands of James WALSH, the second his mate, who also came boss paid for murder. The accused were shown to be the principals of the revolt. GEORGE HALL and JAMES WALSH were called as witnesses for the prosecution, and WILLIAM BIRNEY appeared for the defendants. The trial concluded with a verdict of guilty and a recommendation to mercy. The prisoners were subsequently sentenced for sentence.

WILLIAM QUIRK pleaded guilty on an indictment in which he was charged with violating the Congressional Election law, by fraudulently voting at Yonkers at the last election. He was also sentenced.

JOSEPH HARRINGTON was arraigned for having, as alleged, embezzled letters while acting as a mail-carrier at the Yorkville Station. It appeared that BRIDGET AYLMY complained to the Post-office authorities that she had not received several letters which had been directed to her at various times. The accused was suspected, and decoy letters were prepared in order to detect him. On being arrested he was found in possession of the decoy letters, together with sixteen others which were unopened, and which were not addressed to places along his route. It was supposed that he had taken them from another carrier's box. JAMES GAYLOR special agent of the Post-office Department, Col. R. O. MORGAN, and WM. CLARK were among those who gave evidence for the prosecution, and Ex-Alderman JOHN D. OTTIWELL and RICHARD

DALTON PETERSON, the jury retiring, returned a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy. Assistant District-Attorney PURDY conducted the trial for the Government. HAWKINS was remanded for sentence, after which the Court adjourned until this morning.

Recorder Hackett's Hints to Practitioners Found Useful in Deciding a Question of Fact.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday, JOHN CLARKE was arraigned upon an indictment charging him with assaulting a loaded pistol at FRANCIS GOODALL, with intent to kill him. The complainant resides on Twenty-fourth-street, adjoining the Grand Opera-house. On the evening of the 27th of December, at about o'clock, complainant discovered the accused upon the roof of the building, peering into the Opera-house window. CLARKE pretended to be drunk, jumped down on the ground, (only a few feet beneath,) and snapped the pistol at GOODALL. An Erie watchman, named SIMSON, then came up and arrested him. The weapon, a revolver, when taken from him was found to be loaded with six cartridges, and capped and ready for action. The accused claimed that the hammer was snapped upon one of the loaded chambers. This was denied by the witnesses. Recorder HACKETT could not believe this to be the case, unless there was an intention left upon the cartridge, and to test the matter sent a deputy-clerk into the adjoining chamber for a cartridge. The cartridge was then examined by the Court and jury, and the Recorder's opinion was sustained. The accused was convicted of attempting to commit bodily harm, and sentenced to four years' hard labor in the State Prison.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

Yesterday, (Feb. 28,) at the Exchange, was decidedly the most interesting day thus far of the season, both in the character of the transactions effected, the class of property offered, intense realized, attendance of buyers' presence, and in other particulars which have a tendency to remain secretly. At the opening hour for business, 12 M., the auctioneers commenced sands, and the Exchange for an hour presented an old-time air. A few more such exhibitions of interest as that of yesterday cannot fail to exert a beneficial effect upon the market generally. Most of the property offered was sold to bona-fide purchasers, and the greater portion of it brought good figures. The following is a review of the days transactions in brief, for the sake of the table plans were adopted in reading, it is unnecessary to again particularly describe the property, besides the exact size and location of each lot disposed of, together with the name of purchasers and price realized, will be found in the summary of sales annexed.

The most important auction of the day, although convened but a short time, was that conducted by MULLIGAN, WILKINS & CO., on the executor's sale, by order of HENRY F. MCGOWN, executor of ANDREW MCGOWN, deceased, sold a large line of principally unimproved City property—forty-five lots in all—located on Ninety-fourth, Ninety-fifth, One Hundred and Third, One Hundred and Fourth, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh and One Hundred and Twenty-eighth streets, respectively. Every lot was disposed of, and the results of the transactions eminently satisfactory, the total sum realized amounting to $159,420.

JAMES M. MILLER, also at an executor's sale, by order of the executors of THOMAS J. BLANCK, deceased, concluded another highly important transaction, which, when the bonds and mortgages covered property was sold, and the sum of $274,200 in the aggregate realized. The sale embraced three houses and twenty-three lots, situated respectively on Hudson-street, Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth streets, near Broadway, on One Hundred and Fifth street, and on Seventh and Ninth avenues. All the property sold realized fair prices, although some prices appear to have been bargains. The Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth-street lots, near Broadway, were sought by parties interested in the estate, but those are said to have been the only ones in which the estate did not pass to outside buyers.

BOSMAN & MCGUIRE, by order of the Supreme Court, in a foreclosure under the direction of Daniel H. Conover, Esq., sold the entire remaining portion known as No. 766 Broadway, east side, just north of Fourteenth-street. The building is comparatively worthless, but the lot is 25 feet front by 137 feet 8 inches in depth. WILLIAM LALOR purchased the property for $72,000, and will erect a fireproof building under the direction of Robert Mills, plan sold. Three lots on the west side of First-avenue, between Fifty-first and Fifty-second streets, at $2,600 per lot, also a few figure. W. K. STEVENSON, Son & Co., B. F. FAIRCHILD, auctioneer, at another executor's sale, by order of SAMUEL CARDWELL, Esq., executor, disposed of four lots on the west side of Third-avenue, south of Forty-second-street, and five lots, price $2,600 per lot, and four lots on the east side of the same avenue, south of Forty-second street, at excellent figures, the six lots bringing $66,100. At public auction, but unimproved fifteen lots, on the south side of Eighty-ninth-street, east of Madison-avenue, was sold by the same firm for $4,800.

J. ROBERTS & MCGUIRE, Jr. & Co., at public auction, sold four lots, with the buildings thereon (the latter of little worth,) situated on the south side of Broome and Hester streets, numbered respectively 227, 229, 231 and 233 Broome-street. The lots were sold to different purchasers, and for the past, to by 64.3, the sum of $41,300 was realized. The premises No. 71 Hester-street, west side, near Elizabeth-street, in the rear of the above property, were also offered, but although knocked down for $19,500, not sold. Messrs. BERGEROT & CO., in addition, disposed of a store lot, No. 250 Fulton-street, south-west corner of Church-street, for $19,600.

JAMES M. MILLER offered for sale four lots, four-story brick tenements, fronting on the south-west corner of Sixth-avenue and Seventeenth-street, Brooklyn, Near Prospect Park; also four lots on the south side of Seventh-street, in the rear of the lots first named. The corner lots with building were nominally sold to M. W. Tuthan for $12,000 and the rear lots to the same purchaser for $1,250 each. In the summary below we omit this sale, for as far as possible we desire to record only such sales as are really effected.

E. H. LUDLOW & CO. offered for sale the premises known as No. 52 Eighth-street, (St. Mark's-place,) New-York, east of Second-avenue, consisting of three-story and attic brick house, and lot, 22 by 90 feet. Bids amounting to $14,300 were made for the property, but this sum not coming up to the views of the owner, it was withdrawn.

Three adjournments of Supreme Court sales in foreclosure as follows, closed the business of the day. By JAMES M. MILLER, sale of house and lot, on the east side of Third-avenue, between Forty-third and Forty-seventh streets, adjourned until March 14. By LAWRENCE, OAKLEY & FLEURY, sale of house and lot, east side of Lexington-avenue, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth streets, adjourned one week. By WILLIAM KENNELLY, sale of lot with stable thereon, north side of Thirty-seventh-street, between Fifth and Madison avenues, adjourned until March 14.

Hs Brooklyn, at the Commercial Exchange, No. 389 Fulton-street, Messrs. Wyckoff, Supreme Court in foreclosure, sales of some important realty effected by J. COLE as auctioneer, particulars in regard to which will be found below. The referee conducting the sales was respectively, Messrs. H. G. INGRAHAM, G. C. BRADY, O. W. THOMAS and C. T. SAMPSON. The attendance at the Exchange was quite above the COLE, also, made several local sales on Monday, but only one of importance, however, being the sale of a small house and lot, 25 by 100, located on the north side of Floyd-street, 25 feet east of Tompkins-avenue. Sold to Geo. W. Lose for $1,300.

The business proposed for to-morrow at the Exchange, in this City, is again of interest and worthy the attention of investors, sales being projected by MULLIGAN, WILKINS & CO., E. H. LUDLOW & CO. and JAMES M. MILLER. At the City Exchange, in Brooklyn, WECKOFF & LEFFERTS will offer a large double property located in that city, and at the Brooklyn Commercial Exchange, J. COLE as auctioneer, will sell several local sales. Full reports as to the result of all these various transactions will appear as usual in the column to-morrow.

The following private sales recently effected are reported:

By WM. KENNELLY, No. 4 Pine-street—Four-story brick tenement and lot, north-west corner of First-avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-seventh-street, lot 25 by 100, sold to RICHARD G. DERBY for $21,000.

By WM. H. RAYNOR, No. 256 Pine-street—Four lots, south-west corner of Eighth-avenue and Seventy-fourth-street, lot 100 by 100, $22,400. These last-named lots, as reported, were sold by Mr. RAYNOR last week for $20,100.

OUR ENGLISH RELATIONS.

Arrival and Departure of Sir John A. Macdonald.

An Interview With the Canadian Commissioner.

A Free Expression of His Views on Questions at Issue.

What He Had to Say Concerning the Alabama Claims, the Canadian Fisheries, Reciprocity, Annexation, Fenian Claims, and Other Matters.

Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD, the Canadian Commissioner appointed by the British Government as a member of the Joint High Commission which is to deliberate on the Alabama claims, Canadian fisheries and other matters, arrived at this City yesterday morning, and left for Washington yesterday evening.

During the brief stay of Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD in New-York he was called upon by a number of the friends and quite freely of gentlemen which the Commissioner will meet, and which are at this time of peculiar interest to the American reader. Before detailing the views of the Canadian Commissioner a few remarks regarding his personal appearance and previous career may not be inappropriate. He is a man apparently about forty-five years of age, and slightly over the middle height, and compactly built. He has strong but prominent features, the clear outlines of which were cut in bold relief, from the fact that he wears neither mustache, beard nor whiskers. His countenance reminds one of the well-known features of the great leader of the English Tory Party—DISRAELI. He is a native of Scotland, but emigrated with his parents to Canada when he was quite a boy. He studied law, and ten years ago had a very large practice. At that time, in fact, he had charge in the Canadian Courts of almost all leading cases in which residents of the United States were concerned. Accordingly he made at that time frequent visits to New-York. His ability as a lawyer, and particularly his knowledge of Canadian affairs, attracted the attention of the home Government. He has, accordingly, long held Government positions, and was recently appointed to represent Canada in the Joint Commission of Washington.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

In reply to the question of the TIMES reporter as to the general basis on which the Alabama claims were to be treated by the English Commission, Mr. MACDONALD replied that on that point he had received no instructions whatever. The Earl DE GREY AND RIPON had brought out the instructions, and they would be communicated to him (Sir JOHN MACDONALD) on his arrival at Washington.

REPORTER—You will, then, take part in the deliberations on the Alabama question, as well as in those on the subject of the Canadian fisheries?

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—Yes; the Commission is appointed to settle all the questions now at issue between the Government of the United States and that of Great Britain.

HOW THE COMMISSION CAME TO BE APPOINTED.

The manner in which this Commission came to be appointed does not, said the Commissioner from Canada, seem to be generally understood. The Canadian Government had made representations to the home Government regarding what the Canadians felt to be violations, by United States citizens, of the rights of the Canadians by sending their vessels to fish in Canadian waters. The home Government brought the matter to the attention of Sir EDWARD THORNTON, and he, pursuant to instructions, asked that a Joint Commission be appointed, to be composed of representatives of the United States and Great Britain, to settle the questions. The Alabama claims had been and were then long strongly urged by the Government of the United States, both through its Ambassador, at London, and through Sir EDWARD THORNTON. The latter, either having intimated to the English Government the question of settling the Alabama claims at the same time as the fisheries question, or having been instructed by the home Government, proposed to the United States Authorities a Joint Commission which should endeavor to come to an agreement on all questions now at issue between the two Governments. In this way the Commission, with its present objects, came to be appointed. What ground either the United States or the British Commissioners may take regarding the Alabama claims I do not know, of course, here, said the Canadian Commissioner. Any proposition that may be brought out in a shape which will generally have to be altered as the labors of the Commission proceed and as the views of both sides are made known. In reply to a question as to what might be his own view as to the ground either side might take at the outset, Sir JOHN said that he had not any opinion on the subject, and that even if he had he could not give expression to a private opinion in view of the official deliberations which were about to be entered on.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

On this subject, with the bearings of which the Canadian Commissioner seemed thoroughly conversant, he said the matter at issue was a very simple one, and was generally understood. The Canadians complained that United States vessels had no right, according to all recognized usages, to fish in Canadian waters. Even in your own country, said he, one State, like Maine for example, resents any attempt on the part of Connecticut to fish in the waters along the Maine coast. Canada only asks the same rights which the various States of the Union demand in their relations with each other on the very same subject. It remained to be seen what views the American Commissioners will put forward in opposition to this, the Canadian view of the subject.

THE RECIPROCITY TREATY.

REPORTER—Would not a reciprocity treaty settle this matter?

COMMISSIONER—That is a subject for the United States to consider, said he. The British and American Governments can never agree upon a treaty mutually advantageous to the Canadians and the people of the United States, is might be beneficial. But there is this great difficulty in the way as we have shown when a reciprocity treaty existed. The treaty was made between the two Governments, but it did not work equally well for both sides. The Americans had free use of the Canadian canals, but when the Canadians attempted to put into operation a corresponding privilege the State of New-York interfered. The canals were the property of the State, and the State did not recognize the right of the Federal Government to interfere in regard to them.

THE ANNEXATION QUESTION.

REPORTER—Is there not a strong and daily increasing party in Canada who believe that that country would be much benefited by annexation to the United States?

COMMISSIONER—No, it is not so. The Annexationist party is weak, both in numbers and influence. There are very few men of any prominence in Canada, or having much influence among the masses, who entertain sentiments in favor of annexation.

REPORTER—How, then, do you account for the fact that all accounts which are received here from Canada represent the existence of a strong party in favor of annexation?

COMMISSIONER, (laughing)—Well, I suppose that, so far as the newspaper accounts are concerned, the correspondents write under instructions.

THE QUESTION OF AN INDEPENDENT CANADA.

REPORTER—Not only does the belief prevail there that there is a powerful annexation party in Canada, but that, setting the question of annexation aside, there is an influential and numerous element in favor of separation from England and the establishment of a complete Canadian independence.

COMMISSIONER—Of one thing I can assure you, that if Canada had to choose between complete independence and annexation to the United States, she would select the former. The Canadians, however, do not see what they could gain by separation from the Government, or by annexation to the United States. Canada is prosperous. In the administration of her own affairs she is as independent of the Imperial, as the various States of the Union are of the Federal Government. The feeling toward the home Government is of the most loyal character. Canadians are highly taxed by the Provincial Parliament, and pay no revenue to the Imperial Government.

REPORTER—Canada is a great country, what has England to gain by the possession of Canada? The Provincial Government does not even support the troops England sends over.

COMMISSIONER—The expense in that respect to England is now very [illegible] very regrettable. [illegible]

REPORTER—If Canada were [illegible] trade with her would [illegible]

COMMISSIONER—[illegible] FENIAN RAIDS.

Reverting to the Fenian raids and said the British Government had always contended that the complaints of the Canadians concerned no Canadian claim for the Fenian raids.

REPORTER—Well, the Canadian people, I suppose, rather the belief that the United States owed them, as a part of the consideration claims, a claim for compensation for the damages caused during the rebellion and the Confederate raids from Canada. Owed as an offset a right to compensation on the ground of the Fenian raids? These questions are comparatively slight issues in the general question, which will, I presume, have to be settled by the Commission. [illegible]

[illegible] Washington to the Commission Senate—Discussion of the Headland Question.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 28.—Hon. Mr. MITCHELL, Minister of Marine and the Fisheries, spoke in the Senate last night on the fishery question, reviewing the whole question. In the course of his remarks he said:

Headland right was based on the law of nations. He quoted in support of his argument the opinion of DANIEL WEBSTER. He said the Government had never contended, as Government proposed to be settled was the geographical limit of three miles from the coast, whether from headland to headland, or to follow the indentation of the coast.

Senator T. D. ST. JUST thought future Earnest would see the advisability of a war who would secure to us some of our fishery rights.

Senator MITCHELL opposed this idea, and felt assured that the representative from Canada on the Commission would never agree to the resignation of our rights without obtaining the consent of Parliament and the people of Canada.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

The William Haw, Jr. Coterie, is an organization named in honor of the courteous but unflinching champion of sound Republicanism as opposed to Ring allurements in Yorkville, who occupied the chair of the Woodford and Kauffman Campaign Club, during the Gubernatorial contest. The members of the coterie who have been giving their best energies to the perfection of that machinery by which political reform is to materially aided, intend for the nonce to rest from their labors and abandon themselves to "mirth and measured steps," and to-night they will give a reception at Harlem Music Hall, corner of One Hundred and Thirtieth-street and Third-avenue. A large number of invitations have been issued and it is expected that many fair ones will be present to participate in the festivity.

An inquest was held yesterday, by Coroner YOUNG, in the case of JOHN CROMIN and THOMAS MCGLOUGHLIN, who were killed by the explosion of a hand-blast in a rock on Monday evening, near Ninetieth-street, on the 20th ult. The evidence adduced was to the effect that the blasting had been done in as careful a manner as possible. The hole had been drilled four or five feet, and a charge of powder nine inches deep had been placed therein and covered with sand, as a preparation for a hand blast, which being fired off missed fire, sufficient time was permitted to elapse before the workmen approached it, when they proceeded to "puddle" the hole with water. A few minutes after the powder exploded and the deceased were killed. The jury decided to render a verdict of accidental death, expressing the opinion that all proper precautions had been taken.

In pursuance of a call issued by the North American Gymnastic Bund, a union of Swiss societies extending throughout the United States, action has been taken by the Grütli Verein, of this City, to raise funds for the relief of the Swiss residents at Paris, who are very numerous in the French capital, most of whom, like the Parisians themselves, are destitute in consequence of the siege. The funds thus raised among the Swiss in this country will be forwarded to the Swiss Government by the Swiss Consul-General, Mr. J. HITZ. Arrangements are being made for a mass meeting in relation to this matter, which is to come off in a few days.

In the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, CALEB GIBBON was convicted of stealing $100 worth of clothing, and sentenced to the State Prison for five years. JAMES SMITH was convicted of stabbing ALEXANDER E. STAFFIN, and sentenced to the Penitentiary for eighteen months. Both are lads of about eighteen years of age. In passing sentence the Recorder expressed his determination to deal severely in all similar cases in which the knife or pistol is used.

The Charles G. Cornell Association enjoyed its annual invitation ball at Irving Hall last evening, under very favorable auspices. There was a large and brilliant assemblage in honor of Mr. CORNELL's personal friends being present. The arrangements of the Committee were executed in the most acceptable manner and afforded general satisfaction.

Yesterday Judge WOODRUFF affirmed the decree of Judge BRANCHROOD in the case of PHILIP FITZPATRICK and others against 800 barrels of cotton and 228 barrels of molasses, and ordered EDWARD TURNER, the claimant for the Union, and WALTER T. JONES and JAMES A. WHITLOCK, the libellants in appeal, to pay the appellees the sum of $23,[illegible].

JANE FITZPATRICK was arrested last night for attempt[illegible], attempted suicide in the Eleventh Ward Police Station by hanging herself to the door of her cell with a pocket-handkerchief. She was cut down, and resuscitated. ELIZA GRALEY, of No. 165 Leonard-street, swallowed laudanum last night with suicidal intent. She was removed to the Park Hospital for treatment.

Commissioner SHIELDS visited Bellevue Hospital, yesterday, for the purpose of taking the testimony of FRANCIS ALDOT, one of the colored sailors alleged to have been cruelly treated by Capt. FRANCIS and his mates, of the ship Virginia. The witness was suffering from such severe injuries as to prevent his removal to the Court-room.

A course of three lectures by Rev. Dr. DEMME is announced, to be delivered in the Church of the Strangers, Mercer-street, between Clinton-place and Waverley-place. They will be given on the first three Tuesdays in March. The opening lecture for next Tuesday evening is entitled "Courting and Marrying," and is said to be in the Doctor's happiest vein.

PATRICK WILSON, aged thirty, residing in Seventeenth-street near Tenth-avenue, was instantly killed yesterday by the fall of a derrick in Sixty-fifth-street, while hoisting a heavy stone on a building. THOMAS BRADLEY, of Sixty-fourth-street, was also dangerously injured at the same time, besides two others slightly.

CHARLES RUDOLPH, a cigar-dealer, doing business in Eighth-avenue, near Thirtieth-street, was arrested, yesterday, on a charge of not making proper entries of his purchases, and of selling cigars in unstamped boxes. He was held in $2,000 bail by Commissioner SHIELDS for examination.

PETER LANGAN, thirty-six years of age, a native of Ireland, fell down stairs yesterday morning at No. 128 Chrystie-street, and was so badly injured that he expired soon after. An inquest was held by Coroner KEENAN, and a verdict of accidental death rendered.

City Chamberlain BRADLEY yesterday paid into the City Treasury $5,945 56, interest received on public moneys during February. During his term of office Mr. BRADLEY has paid into the City Treasury from this source $114,377 56.

There were nine sudden deaths reported to the Coroners yesterday, six of them being those of children. The Coroners held inquests during the day, and ascertained that they had all resulted from natural causes.

VICTORIA C. WOODHULL, of the firm of WOODHULL, CLAFLIN & CO., is to deliver her "Argument for Constitutional Equality" at Cooper Institute, this evening.

BROOKLYN.

EUGENE O'NEIL, residing on York-street, near Hudson-avenue, was stabbed in the right arm, yesterday morning, in a liquor-saloon at the corner of High and Bridge streets, by a man named KANE. They had been drinking together, and the affair grew out of a discussion on some political subject. KANE escaped and has not yet been arrested.

Considerable consternation was created among many of the large real estate owners of the city, yesterday, by the discovery of the fact that the counsellor for the Fire Commissioners had issued the direction of the Inspector of Public Buildings, requiring an inspection of one hundred of the principal property-holders for violating the law regulating the construction of public buildings. The penalty attached to this misdemeanor is $250 fine, or imprisonment for six months, or both, as the discretion of the Court. The defendants have declared their intention to fight the matter to the end, and with that view have engaged the legal services of Mr. P. KEADY.

The Water Commissioners and their Aldermanic friends visited the seat of the proposed new reservoir in Hempstead Valley, yesterday, and at the conclusion of their labors drank a large quantity of wine at the expense of the city. The Mayor, on account of ill-health, was unable to be present.

The Excise Commissioners are busily engaged in prosecuting the unlicensed whisky dealers of the city. Yesterday Inspector HARTE had the following persons arrested and arraigned before Justice WALSH: William Myer, Andrew Kaiser, Julia Green, Andrew Maubach, Francis Brunk, Robert Kelly, Barney Schwartzer, Daniel Sullivan, Ernest Hagenbarth, Jacob Hunter and Mary Delgnan. They will be arraigned today.

LONG ISLAND.

KELLY & DEVINE have been jointly indicted for the murder of GARRETT W. MONTANDE, by the Queens County Grand Jury. KELLY pleads his innocence. He says he was not with DEVINE when the assault was made. He says he met DEVINE, and the latter told him he had killed MONTANDE. He told DEVINE if he had done anything wrong he did not want his company. DEVINE persisted in remaining with him, and he drove him away. DORUS DEHEMAN has been indicted for the murder of her child. GEORGE SELTON, confined on a charge of robbery, has been discharged.

Hon. LOUIS J. ABRAMSOHN, County Judge, delivered a lecture last night before the Manhasset Lyceum Association, in their hall in that village. Hon. WM. E. ONDERDONK, President of the Lyceum, introduced the speaker. The subject, "Everyday Duties," was treated by Mr. ABRAMSOHN with great force and originality.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

It is understood that the Grand Jury, on Monday, found a true bill of indictment against JOSEPH LEUNBURGER, who caused the death of Miss FREDERIKA MEYER, at Sing Sing, on the 14th ult., by shooting her with a pistol. It is believed, however, that he cannot live very long, inasmuch as the wound which he inflicted upon himself has taken an unfavorable change.

The arguments of counsel in the Bussing will case, before Surrogate COFFIN of Westchester County, were heard at the Court-house, White Plains, yesterday. The Surrogate took the papers and reserved his decision.

NEW-JERSEY.

An appeal is being made to the friends of Princeton College for contributions to erect upon the College grounds a public library, as a depository for all the books of the institution, and, in a particular manner, for the safe keeping of the books secured by the fund of the "Elizabeth Foundation," a fund of $6,000 per annum given to the College for the purchase of books, by Mr. JOHN C. GREEN, of New-York. The present library of the College contains about 28,000 volumes.

Popular agitation in Woodside on the question of annexation to Newark is quite lively. The anti-annexationists held a meeting on Monday night, at which the speakers generally objection against the measure the consequent high taxation. They resolved to divide the township into four districts, and to appoint officers to act as a Board of Freeholders in laying out streets, &c. The friends of the measure will hold a meeting during the week.

A colored man named CHARLES S. MANNING, of Jersey City, entertained another son of Ham, who was in a state of want on Monday night, at his residence. The family retired, yesterday morning, they found their guest had vanished and with him a silver watch. He gave his name as BROOKS and represented himself as a musician.

The Board of Water Commissioners of Jersey City have awarded the contract for the erection and completion of the new reservoir to Messrs. MITCHELL and BRINGSWORD, they having agreed to execute the work for $163,000. The highest bid was nearly $600,000.
